Many Prefer Adaptation For Federal Building

By BOB GUENTHER and LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writers

The fate of 69-year-old Federal Building at 10th and P today hangs in an uneasy limbo.

Once the federal offices move this summer to new quarters at 15th and O, will the wrecking ball clear the way for a new hotel complex? Or, will the Bedford limestone structure be converted imaginatively into a performing arts center, a child-oriented complex of shops and museums or an office building?

All of these uses have been seriously suggested. Some who question the beauty of the building's Classical Revival architecture (they call it "Greek outhouse" or "early WPA" style) are rooting for the wrecking ball. A park is needed, they say.

Many Prefer Adaptation

Many prefer adapting the present structure to a new use, and suggest the eventual use of the block is critical to renaissance of downtown Lincoln.

In the same block as the old Federal Building is the Old City Hall; together they occupy one of the more valuable parcels of downtown real estate. The Federal Building alone is worth $456,000. The block is readily accessible from Interstate 80 and U.S. 77 and is across the street from the new Lincoln Hilton Hotel.

The 90,000 square feet of space in the heart of downtown is a developer's dream.

Lack of a full block in the downtown area was a reason that Bankers Life Nebraska moved from downtown in the late '50s to Cotner and O.

1906 Agreement Has Role

A stumbling block to complete redevelopment is a 1906 agreement providing that if Old City Hall ceases to be used for municipal purposes, title to the block reverts to the federal government.

However, title to the old Federal Building will be handed over to Mutual Development Corp. headed by businessman John Campbell, when the federal offices move.

Mutual traded part of the site for the new Federal Building for the old one plus $62,000.

Mutual is privately negotiating the sale of the old Federal Building with possible developers, including local interests.

Campbell and others close to the negotiations have refused to talk about them. It has been rumored that Ramada Inn is interested in the block, although a spokesman denied it.

"More than one party is interested in the block," Campbell acknowledged.

Don Parker, a member of Mutual Development's board of directors, said Mutual itself has no interest in developing the building.

"We'd like to sell it and get out of it," Parker said. "It's a heck of a good building and has been kept up well."

"All it needs are new elevators and a new air-conditioning and heating system."

Demolition Costly

Campbell has said demolition of the building is a possibility. That could cost as much as $130,000, one wrecking contractor estimated.

Asked if there is any effort to keep it for some community-oriented use, Campbell said, "it's not up to us to determine what the best use is."

Parties currently negotiating with Mutual "are interested in what is good for the city," Campbell said. "The City of Lincoln has to make some of those decisions."

Local architect Larry Enersen is going to propose to the buyers that the Federal Building be converted into a performing arts center, Column A reporters have learned. It has been suggested that a local businessman engaged the architect to prepare the proposal.

Enersen was reluctant to discuss his plans. "I have been working on it. I think it's a pretty fine building. I wouldn't tear it down," he said.

His plans include keeping the building's facade while constructing a new stage area in the center of the U-shaped building.

A joint University of Nebraska-City of Lincoln performing arts center, as a town and gown venture, has been a pet project of NU President D. B. Varner.

Varner said he is aware of Enersen's proposal and called it "an interesting possibility" that could be "delightful."

Varner Cites Advantages

Converting the old Federal Building into a performing arts center has several advantages over construction of a new center, Varner said.

First, he said it would cost roughly half of a new $10 million performing arts center. It also offers a "great deal of space" and would preserve "an attractive piece of architecture," he said.

Mrs. Mary Price, a Lincoln teacher, offered another alternative: converting the old Federal Building and the Old City Hall into a child-oriented complex featuring restaurants, museums, theater, art gallery, doctors' offices and shops.

"It's a dream I've had for many years," Mrs. Price said. "I see it as a huge tourist attraction for Lincoln... It would save the architectural and historical value of these buildings."

A common problem plaguing Mrs. Price's and Enersen's proposals is the uncertainty of financial backing.

Ultimately the city will exert some influence on how the eventual developer utilizes the building.

Dick White, a member of the Downtown Advisory Council (DAC), said, "One way or another they (the City Council) have something to say about most major projects. They can do it in zoning or whatever."

"DAC is advisory. We can advise whether or not the proposed use is in keeping with the plan we've worked out. If we really felt another use would be better, I'm sure we would say so."

Robert L. Hanna, an architect who chaired the Save the Stuart Theater Committee, said:

"It is such an important block, and perhaps at this moment the most important block in Lincoln next to Centrum (the block south of O between 11th and 12th)," Hanna said.

"It must not fall into the hands of indiscriminate developers or an outside interest who might fail to realize the impact to the Lincoln Central Business District and the community itself."

Helms Didn't Tell All About CIA In Chile

Washington (AP) — Former CIA Director Richard M. Helms has acknowledged that he withheld information concerning the agency's covert operations in Chile while testifying under oath on two occasions before Senate Committees.

"I felt obliged to keep some of this stuff, in other words, not volunteer a good deal of information," Helms told a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last month. He said that disclosure of CIA operations against the government of Chilean President Salvador Allende could have further damaged relations between the U. S. and Chile.

Helms appeared before the foreign relations panel on Jan. 22 to explain various apparent discrepancies in previously sworn statements regarding CIA operations both abroad and at home. A censored transcript of his testimony was released by the committee Sunday.

Helms said that his decision to withhold information was perhaps "a serious mistake" but categorically denied that he had ever knowingly lied to a congressional committee.

"If I have been guilty in the past of not having gone the whole way, all right," he said.

On a related matter, Helms blamed a lapse of memory as the principal cause of discrepancies in his sworn statements concerning the agency's domestic activities.

Helms said he "has totally forgotten about the Huston business" when he assured the Foreign Relations Committee in February 1973 that the CIA was not involved in a government effort to gather intelligence on the anti-war movement.

"The Huston business" refers to a 1970 memo written by former Nixon aide Tom Charles Huston recommending break-ins and other "clearly illegal" tactics as a means of improving domestic intelligence.

Helms continued to deny that the CIA had done anything improper in response to the Huston plan.

"Participation in the Huston plan by the CIA had only to do with our giving assurance that we would increase our effort overseas in the foreign field to find out if there were connections with these various dissident groups in the United States. We did not undertake to do anything in the domestic intelligence field," he said.

Viet Aid Phaseout Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Setting the stage for a possible compromise, 82 congressmen Sunday asked President Ford for a dialogue on phasing out all U.S. aid to South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Ford said in an interview published by the Chicago Tribune on Sunday he would be willing to halt present large-scale U.S. aid to South Vietnam in three years if Congress appropriates sufficient money during that time.

The 82 congressmen — 12 senators and 70 House members — told Ford in a letter the time has come for a decision "as to how we will extricate ourselves from the situation in Southeast Asia once and for all."

They said they are prepared for a serious, unemotional dialogue "on the immediate problem of ending our involvement in Indochina responsibly and honorably."

"We are not prepared for it to continue indefinitely."

They said continued U.S. aid "may perhaps prolong the life" of the Nguyen Van Thieu and Lon Nol governments in South Vietnam and Cambodia but that there is no humanitarian or national interest justifying that cost to the United States.

"Continuing American military and economic involvement in Indochina will not bring that unhappy region closer to a lasting peace," they said.

"Although the phased withdrawal of American support will not in itself bring peace to the region, it is equally clear that its continuation will not do so either."

The congressmen said the United States cannot afford the aid because of the problems it has at home.

Ford said in the Chicago Tribune interview that it is "important for South Vietnam and Cambodia to survive" but this does not mean endless U.S. support to them.

"I would be willing to take sufficiently large amounts over a three-year period and say, 'this is it — if the Congress will appropriate it, I would agree not to ask any more,'" he said.

Ford's new budget for fiscal 1976 requests $1.3 billion in military aid for Vietnam and $497 million for Cambodia.

The President said U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin told him this level of aid over two years "would in effect end or terminate sums of this magnitude."

Gen. Fred Weyand, Army chief of staff, testified to the Senate on Friday that U.S. support for South Vietnam probably would be required for another five to 10 years.

Make-Believe Flight Exciting

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — American astronauts and Russian cosmonauts visited Disney World for a make-believe space trip Sunday beyond the Milky Way and declared it a great rehearsal for their joint orbital flight next July.

They boarded simulated spaceships for a journey past planets and star fields in the darkened Space Mountain attraction.

After a three-minute roller coaster-like ride, cosmonaut Alexei Leonov told reporters: "It was the greatest simulation. We now have had training for our joint flight."

Leonov will command the two-man Russian crew which is to link up in space with an American Apollo ship.

His copilot, Valery Kubasov, said of the ride, "I was very excited. I also was a little scared."

Astronaut Thomas Stafford, commander of the American team, called it a thrilling experience. Vance Brand termed it "good training for our flight."

Brand also said, "The only time we would feel anything like that in flight would be during an abort. And we don't plan to abort."

The primary space teams were accompanied by several other cosmonaut and astronaut backup and support crewmen.

Vladimir Shatalov, chief of the cosmonaut corps, jokingly said that in Russia, doctors would attach sensors to the spacemen on such a ride to determine their reaction "and perhaps some of the cosmonauts might not answer the requirements."

'Untouchables' Disarm Criminals

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

The "Untouchables" of law enforcement lore have established a program to disarm "significant criminals" or get them off the street entirely.

The program officially began in January with the U.S. Bureau on Alcohol, Tobacco and Safety, the "old Elliot Ness group," according to Dwight Thomas, the resident agent in charge of the bureau's regional office in Omaha.

Six persons have been arrested by the regional office under the program, Thomas said. Three have been convicted and three are awaiting trial.

National Program

The nationwide program, Thomas said, relies on enforcing federal gun laws against people who local law enforcement officials believe are engaged in criminal activity.

The value of the program, Thomas said, is that it can be used in situations where local officials may suspect a person of committing an armed robbery or other serious crime, but cannot make a case against him.

Of the three persons convicted so far under the program, two persons suspected of armed robbery received six years in prison and one suspected of being connected with organized crime received two years' probation.

The gun law used in the program most frequently, Thomas said, is one prohibiting persons who have been convicted of a felony from carrying a gun.

Law Has Changed

The law was changed recently. Formerly the government had to prove that a felon had carried the gun across state lines or that he had received it in a direct interstate shipment.

Now the government only has to prove that the person was carrying the gun in a manner affecting commerce, for example on a street, in an airport or in a bus depot, or that the gun was itself carried across state lines, not necessarily by the person carrying it.

The violation carries a penalty of up to ten years in prison or up to a $10,000 fine or both.

The Omaha regional office has eight investigators who are available to work on the program, Thomas said. The office has a staff of 11 people.

Investigators Assist

The investigator will assist local law enforcement officials in surveillance and other duties and will develop original cases on their own, Thomas said.

Thomas said the office is soliciting local law enforcement agencies for the names of felons they believe are armed and dangerous and currently involved in criminal activity.

"We're not interested in some guy who did some time 10 or 15 years ago and has been rehabilitated," Thomas said.

Proposed Disclosure Law Would Toughen Politicking

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Candidates for the City Council and mayor's post may find they'll go politicking for those city jobs this spring under a tougher campaign disclosure law.

The present group of city lawmakers is sure to consider enactment of a stricter campaign reporting law, just in time for the April and May city elections.

The latest proposal, drafted by the city law department, would require candidates to report contributions and expenditures.

Limit Amounts

The measure would go one step further by setting a limit on the amount of money any contributor could kick into the campaign kitty. It would set a limit on the amount any one candidate or political committee could receive or spend. No dollar figures have been proposed.

The disclosure ordinance would cover more than just mayoral and council candidates. The law also would cover committees formed to promote or prevent passage of city charter amendments or any measures appearing on the city ballot as a result of an initiative or referendum petition drive.

This is not the first time the City Council will have considered a tightened campaign reporting bill. The draft was requested by Councilwoman Helen Boosalis, who three years ago failed in an attempt to enact a similar law.

Mrs. Boosalis introduced a campaign reporting bill in the fall of 1972, well in advance of the May, 1973, council elections.

At that time the veteran lawmaker said people "have a right to know what kind of funds are supporting local candidates."

Bill Defeated

The majority of the council didn't buy the bill. They defeated the ordinance.

Councilmen Richard Baker and Bob Sikyta argued that the disclosure law was unnecessary since state law requires campaign committees to report contributions and expenditures in excess of $25. The councilmen said most candidates have committees.

But Mrs. Boosalis and Councilman Steve Cook, who was also on the council in 1972, argued it was necessary to plug the loophole in state law and require candidates, not just committees, to file reports.

Under state law, candidates with committees don't have to worry about failing to file a report. The law places the blame on the treasurer of that committee. And so it's the treasurer, not the candidate, who faces a $50 to $500 fine for violating the law.

$100-$500 Fine

Under the new proposal, any office-seeker, committee or contributor who "knowingly" violates the law would be guilty of a misdemeanor. That carries a fine of $100 to $500.

The latest measure also attempts to overcome objections leveled against the 1972 proposal. Council members said candidates would be swamped with paperwork just to keep track of volunteer help.

The proposed bill would exempt candidates from reporting volunteer services, necessary travel expenses and filing fees.

Financial Reports

Statements of campaign contributions and expenses would be filed with the city clerk. Reports would be filed three times prior to the election and once following the election.

Councilman Max Denney has indicated he may join Mrs. Boosalis in co-sponsoring a stricter campaign disclosure law. No date has been set to discuss the proposal.

Mrs. Boosalis, Cook, Baker and Sikyta, are up for re-election this spring. None has officially announced whether they will seek the council job once again.

IRA Declares New Cease-Fire In N. Ireland

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — In a surprise move, the Irish Republican Army declared Sunday that it had agreed to a new cease-fire effective Monday evening in its guerrilla war against the British in Northern Ireland and England.

There was no immediate indication why the IRA had decided to declare a truce at this time, and observers said a major question was whether militant Roman Catholics and Protestants would abide by it.

In Belfast, the capital of Northern Ireland, security officials reported two persons were killed and a third was wounded when worshippers leaving St. Bridget's Roman Catholic church were sprayed with bullets from a passing car.

"People seemed to be falling all over the place," said a witness. "Most died, like me, though some, especially the older folk, were too shocked to move. Everybody seemed to be screaming."

The shooting followed a pattern of recent killings that officials speculate are the work of splinter groups from paramilitary organizations of both sides.

The IRA statement said the renewed cease-fire came "in the light of discussions" with British officials "on effective arrangements to ensure that there is no breakdown of a new truce."

After the IRA's 25-day-old Christmas cease-fire was called off Jan. 16, Britain's minister for Northern Ireland, Merlyn Rees, said that only "a genuine and sustained cessation of violence" could lead to major British troop withdrawals and release of IRA prisoners.

British government sources said there had been no new concessions to prompt the cease-fire renewal, which came as a surprise to security forces.

The Christmas truce brought Northern Ireland its first prolonged respite from terrorism since the sectarian war broke out in 1969. After it ended, 11 persons were killed in Ulster and nine bombs exploded in England.

The over-all death toll in the 5½-year struggle now stands at 1,154.

There was no immediate British response to the IRA declaration. The British are wary of angering Northern Ireland's Protestant majority, who have warned against a "sell-out" to Roman Catholics.

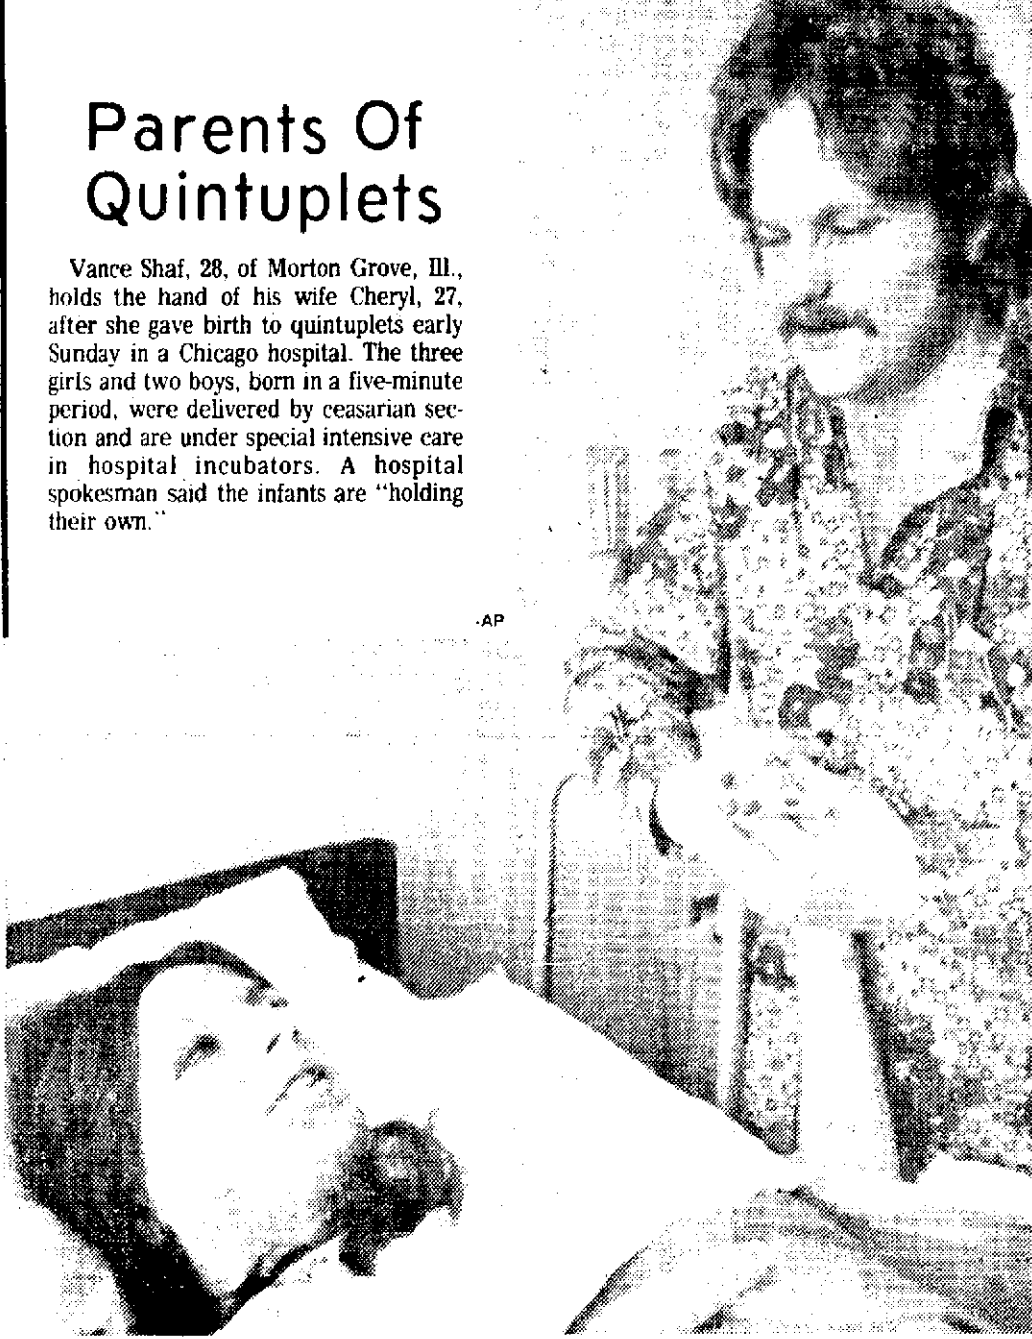

Earlier Sunday, a leader of the Protestant militants' Ulster Volunteer Force warned that his men were prepared to paralyze the province "indefinitely" if politicians try to merge it with the Irish republic, which is predominantly Catholic.

Despite the renewed violence since the Christmas truce collapsed, representatives of the IRA's political front and the British government continued to meet in intense negotiations.

Sources within the IRA repeatedly indicated that the ruling Army Council wanted to restore the truce in a shift from warfare to political initiatives in the campaign to end British rule in Northern Ireland.

The IRA cancelled the Christmas truce on the grounds that the British government did not respond adequately to its demands for a general amnesty for 500 IRA suspects interned without trial and a pledge to eventually withdraw 14,500 British troops from Ulster.

Parents Of Quintuplets

Vance Shaf, 28, of Morton Grove, Ill., holds the hand of his wife Cheryl, 27, after she gave birth to quintuplets early Sunday in a Chicago hospital. The three girls and two boys, born in a five-minute period, were delivered by cesarean section and are under special intensive care in hospital incubators. A hospital spokesman said the infants are "holding their own."

Ex-GIs May Do Better In Desert Than In Jungle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The former American soldiers hired to train Saudi Arabian forces to guard some of the world's most important oil fields believe they can do a better job in the Persian Gulf than the U.S. military did in Southeast Asia.

"From a professional point of view we have a lot more going for us this time around," said retired Army Col. William G. Walby, 49, of Pebble Beach, Calif. He is training director for the Los Angeles-based Vinnell Corp., the first private contractor ever asked by the U.S. Defense Department to train a foreign army.

Like most of the several hundred former military men being recruited, Walby is a veteran of military service in Vietnam. He believes the $335 million contract between the Saudi Arabian government and the Pentagon to train King Faisal's 26,000-man internal security force will have a greater chance of success than in Southeast Asia for these reasons:

—The Americans have a three-year contract to train the Saudis to fire their weapons and fight wars, and it is "Congress-proof" because the Saudis are paying the bills. Normally, U.S. military training programs abroad are scheduled for only a year at a time and are subject to scrutiny and frequent monetary change by Congress, as in Southeast Asia.

—The former U.S. soldiers going to the Persian Gulf will have operational control of the training programs, whereas in Southeast Asia they were only advisers with no control over local troops. "Over there we will be in command," Walby said.

—The Bedouin tribesmen who make up the internal security forces are believed to be intensely loyal to Faisal, "so we won't have to try and teach loyalty to the local leaders, as we tried and failed to do in the countries of Southeast Asia," Walby said.

—Tactically, the high desert of Saudi Arabia will be ideal to implement conventional American military tactics. "All those wide open spaces and no rivers, what a change from the jungles of Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos," Walby said. The Americans will also teach street fighting.

The Vinnell contract to train three newly mechanized infantry battalions and a 105 mm howitzer artillery battalion of similar size is the latest example of a rapidly increasing U.S. stake in the Persian Gulf region.

The Saudi Arabians are already using oil profits to buy American Northrop F-5E jet fighters, Bell helicopters, and Cadillac Gage armored cars.

Around 3,000 American civilians are already in Saudi Arabia to maintain this equipment, and the Vinnell Corp. will swell civilian ranks with 1,000 more.

American corporations are also heavily committed to Iran where another small army of civilian advisors is in place to teach the Shah of Iran's forces to use the billions of dollars worth of sophisticated military equipment he is buying.

Neighboring Oman has also received a shipment of U.S. anti-tank missiles, the first known direct arms sale from Washington to the small, conservative, oil-producing nation. Two U.S. military men went along to provide instruction in the missiles' use.

N.Y. Times Summary

'Real Convictions' Sought
Washington — Secretary of State Kissinger has gone on an exploratory mission to the Middle East that he hopes will lead to a further interim agreement between Israel and Egypt next month. In an interview with The Netherlands Broadcasting Foundation Sunday, Kissinger said this trip "will not yield results" and that he wanted to find out what the "real convictions of the chief protagonists" were. He will then return to Washington to formulate the American view and go again to the Middle East to conclude the negotiations. The second trip is being tentatively planned for early next month.

Bases May Be Closed
Ankara, Turkey — Turkey will probably close some American defense installations here if Congress does not restore military aid to Ankara soon, according to diplomatic and government sources. For 25 years Turkey has relied almost entirely on the United States to guarantee her defenses, and many Turks feel that even if aid is resumed, their relationship with Washington has been badly damaged.

Iraqi Attack Repelled
Teheran (London Times) — An attack by Iraqi forces on Iranian frontier posts has been repelled, Pars, the official Iranian news agency said Sunday. The Iraqi soldiers, supported by tanks and heavy artillery fire, were checked by Iranian border guards, according to the news agency. It said the attack was preceded by heavy shelling Saturday morning.

Leader Blasts Armenia
Moscow — The recently appointed Communist Party chief of Armenia has castigated his fellow Armenians for having forsaken Communist goals to pursue private enterprise and profit in nearly every sphere of life in the Soviet republic. Speaking at a closed plenum of the Armenian Community Party's Central Committee, Karen S. Demichyan lashed out at what he termed rampant "embezzlement of socialist property, abuse of official position, bribe-taking, influence-peddling, speculation, avarice, hooliganism and other negative manifestations" in Armenia.

15% Jobless Forecast
New York — Welfare officials are forecasting that 250,000 persons will be added to the city's relief rolls in a 20-month period starting this spring. They said that if the current federal economic forecasts are accurate, more than 1.2 million persons, or 15% of the city's population, will be on the rolls by late next year.

Families To Leave Phnom Penh

Phnom Penh, Cambodia (AP) — The families of American diplomats have been told to prepare for departure this week from besieged Phnom Penh, which is short of food, fuel and ammunition, a U.S. official said Sunday.

Insurgent mines in the Mekong River shipping channel from South Vietnam are preventing supply convoys from reaching the capital. About 15 vessels have been sunk in a week.

In South Vietnam, the government command reported that its forces suffered heavy losses in a battle northwest of Saigon but dealt the North Vietnamese a severe setback near Da Nang. Saigon but officers said both battles were triggered by South Vietnamese operations designed to preempt North Vietnamese and Viet Cong attacks during and after the our-day lunar new year, which begins Tuesday.

The source in Phnom Penh said only about six wives of U.S. officials were in the city and that they would leave on regular flights during the week. More than 150 French citizens also will fly out, and the Japanese Embassy plans to evacuate families and nonessential staff.

Besides having mines in Cambodia's Mekong River, the Khmer Rouge rebels control the river banks for much of the shipping route. Roads leading into Phnom Penh were cut long ago. Government operations are under way to clear the mines and position troops along the river.

A diplomatic source said U.S. Embassy officials having private generators in Phnom Penh were told their ration of fuel will be cut in the next week. Fuel and electricity have been rationed for some time. Water supplies also have been curtailed.

The government's supply of ammunition was reported low. There is enough food for more than a month but fuel for less than a month.

Cosmonauts Return Safely After 30 Days

MOSCOW (AP) — Cosmonauts Alexei Gubarev and Georgy Grechko returned safely to earth Sunday after spending 30 days in space and establishing a Soviet record. Tass said they felt well after landing smoothly in stormy weather on the Kazakhstan steppes and that their mission was "successfully accomplished."

The two cosmonauts docked their Soyuz 17 spacecraft with an orbiting Salyut 4 laboratory and conducted experiments for nearly a month. While it was a Soviet space endurance record, the time spent in space was far less than the 59 days of an American Skylab 3 crew and the 84-day record by the U.S. Skylab 4 mission completed in February 1974.

The previous Soviet record was 24 days in 1971 and was set by the three cosmonauts who established the world's first orbiting space laboratory aboard Salyut 1. The three cosmonauts died on return to earth because of a fault in their Soyuz ship.

Gubarev and Grechko began their flight Jan. 11 when their Soyuz 17 blasted off at the Baikonur space center. On Jan. 12 they docked and boarded the four-chamber Salyut station.

As usual, official reports on the mission did not say how long it was to last but there was no indication anything went wrong.

Tass, the official news agency, summed up the research carried out by Gubarev and Grechko as dealing with the sun, planets and stars, a study of the earth's surface and atmosphere, and medical and biological experiments to further study the effect of space flights on humans.

A medical examination conducted at the landing site showed both cosmonauts withstood the long flight well, Tass said.

The official report on the mission praised Gubarev and Grechko as "irrepressible" and hard working. During initial stages of the flight, there were indications that the men worked a bit too hard and became exhausted.

After preparing for return to earth and stowing research materials and film, the cosmonauts undocked from the space lab. They put the Soyuz into a descent path and at an altitude of five miles the parachute system deployed and landing engines were fired as they neared earth.

Tass said the craft landed smoothly although there were high winds, low clouds and limited visibility at the landing site, 75 miles northeast of the town of Tselinograd.

For Gubarev and Grechko, each 43, is a first space flight although both are veterans of the cosmonaut corps.

The Salyut 4 space station continued its flight, but there was no indication if another crew would attempt to man it.

The Soyuz 17-Salyut 4 mission was not connected with the joint Apollo-Soyuz flight planned for July.

Ask the Old Farmer: What are your thoughts about the world's energy problems? Do you have any hope? G. K., Boston.

Our worldwide energy "crisis" is man-made and, hence, solvable. And we'd better reach a solution because our planet is the only place to live in the entire cosmos, an Elysian field compared with the surface of a star, not beset with the coldness of Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune, nor the waterless heat of Mercury.

MAJOR CAUSES OF INFLATION

	Jan. 75	Sept. 74	April 73
Foreign, oil-producing countries raising prices on crude oil	76	X	X
Business raising prices	67	74	64
Shortages of gasoline and fuel oil	64	58	X

Spending by the public	31	39	35
Farm prices	22	37	25
X - Not asked

In all cases, the number of people who blame the present economic situation on traditional causes of inflation, such as federal or defense spending, has decreased since last fall, while the number of those who blame inflation on energy shortages and price hikes in fuel by the oil-producing nations has risen.

A similar pattern of pinning blame on foreign, oil-producing nations emerged when the public was asked who is to blame for the present recession in the U.S. People were asked: "If you have to say, how much would you blame (read list) for the country being in a recession today — very much, only some or hardly at all?"

BLAME FOR RECESSION IN U.S.

	Very Only Hardly Not Much Some AT All Sure
Foreign, oil-producing countries	64 22 8 6

Labor unions	39 38 16 7
The American people	25 41 29 5
Big farmers	22 39 32 7
The Ford administration	20 37 34 8

Americans believe that the second greatest reason for the recession beside the foreign oil producers, particularly the Arabs, is the "lack of leadership in the country," although people blamed Congress more than the Ford administration.

The oil tactics of the Arab, oil-producing nations have been costly in terms of American sympathies in the Middle East dispute. By default, Israel could benefit from the resentment that has grown against Arab petroprofits. People were asked:

"In the dispute between Israel and the Arabs, which side do you sympathize with more — Israel or the Arabs?"

Resentment against the oil-producing countries, particularly the Arab nations, has grown to a point where three out of every four Americans blame the petropowers for the inflation and recession. People now view the energy crisis as a problem that is serious enough to cost people their jobs and destroy the economy.

—The number of people who now view the energy crisis as "serious" has risen from 67 to 84% since last July. Those who believe the shortage is "very serious" has jumped from 36 to 44% over the same period.

—Sympathy for Israel in the Middle East dispute has risen from 39 to 52% since November, 1973, in contrast to the lowly 7% whose sympathies lie with the Arabs. It is now obvious that resentment against all oil-producing countries has risen, especially that toward the Arabs, who have tacked on politics to their oil policies.

—The number of people who believe that the U.S. does not have to try to trade alliance for oil with the Arabs or buckle under their demands has risen significantly since last June. A substantial, 68-20% majority of Americans does not agree that "we need Arab oil for our gasoline here at home, so we had better find ways to get along with the Arabs, even if that means supporting Israel less." An even larger majority, 76-13%, agrees that "if we yield to Arab restrictions over oil now, we will soon find the Arabs dictating much of U.S. foreign policy, and that is wrong."

"Those Arabs are trying to put a gun at our heads with their oil," said a businessman in Dubuque, Iowa. "We'll never take blackmail like that. It's not the American way."

—Still, a better than 2-to-1 majority, 58-25%, opposes a take-over and internationalization of the Arab oil fields by the oil-consuming nations.

A cross section of 1,543 households was asked last month:

"Do you feel that (read list) is a major cause of inflation, a minor cause or hardly a cause of inflation at all?"

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Monday

Leo friend of astrology: Mike Douglas. Cancer ditto: Merv Griffin. Cancer on the fence: Art Linkletter. Virgo on "our side": Regis Philbin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You find one who can help you better display, key assets. Keynote is to be creative, creative and willing to like yourself. Past will take care of itself — future has not arrived.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Emphasis is on accepting responsibility in way that leads to future commitment. Hanging on to what appears "comfortable" might be an error. Know it and re-examine motives — and potential.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Study Taurus message for valid hint. Lunar aspect is favorable — indicates now that your ability to communicate becomes a greater asset. Language is involved and so is knowledge of various customs.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Count your change — and your blessings. Express gratitude to those who have aided you — but outline new plans, perhaps demands. Status quo will not get job done. Shake-up is necessary.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Emphasis is on public relations, ability to make new contacts, to express yourself, to find outlet for creative energies. You receive offer which requires legal study. Don't rush to conclusions. Wait and see.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Get family approval before doing anything radical in connection with job, diet, hiring or firing. Be aware of fine points, subtle nuances and what is written between the lines.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Emphasis is on analysis, reasoning power, ability to understand motives of those close to you. Personal magnetism is apparent. Members of opposite sex are drawn to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Home, security, property — these are highlighted. You should now be concerned with basic issues. Complete project. Tie loose ends. Be diplomatic but insistent.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent is on short journeys, relatives, ability to put ideas to practical use. Be selective. See persons, situations as they really exist. Avoid wishful thinking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Money on the line could be your theme. Means it is time for many around you to put up or shut up. Check inventory, costs, tax problems, shelters, insurance policies. Your basic security could be at stake.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be aggressive if necessary to get point across. Refuse to take back seat to mediocrity. You have right to express yourself in unique, creative, individual manner. Trust your judgment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): What occurs brings pleasure. Secluded, out-of-way dining place would be appropriate for celebration. You find that many are eager to listen and applaud. Throw aside false modesty.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are independent, creative, inventive. You tend to be dominating if not checked. You have come through a period of domestic adjustment. You now are beginning to know yourself. October will be outstanding.

Well, the president walked and walked with Barney. Speaking of how the new models were doing. Next year's contract with the unions. Taxes. Things like that. He got rid of his tensions.

But Barney. He walked the paws off Barney who got tense as a fox in a forest fire.

'Are Your Papers In Order?'

Soviet leaders have announced the most liberal relaxation of internal restrictions within the eastern bloc since the two German governments agreed that West Germans could visit East Germans on holidays.

The Kremlin has decreed that beginning next year, Soviet citizens over the age of 16 will be given lifetime passports allowing them to travel anywhere in that nation. For Russians, that's a big deal. Travel from republic to republic, city to city, has involved a tortuous process for many Soviet citizens since the time the communists took power. For most of the Soviet state's history, the only easy travel arrangement was a one-way ticket to Siberia.

So the internal passport in Russia is seen as a liberalizing move.

In the freedom-loving United States, carrying an internal passport would be symbolic of totalitarianism and submissiveness.

Faced with a rising unemployment rate and an influx of illegal aliens who come to this country in search of jobs — and thus compete with American citizens for a dwindling number of work opportunities — the government is eyeing restrictions which would crack down on alien jobseekers.

Among several proposals under study by Congress is one advanced by the Justice Department which would require all persons hired in the U.S. to furnish documentary evidence of their U.S. citizenship or legal alien status. It would prohibit employers from hiring persons who could not produce a birth certificate, immigration papers, or other documents proving the applicants legal status. This proposal, like others, would place the burden on employers to determine whether a job applicant is a legal alien or U.S. citizen.

Nixon's Foresight

Charles Colson, fresh out of prison, told some tales about the good old days last week and even if he should be lacking in credibility there is a strange, foreboding sense of truth about what he said.

Colson was talking about that other fellow, the chief noncredible person, former President Richard Nixon, who according to Colson said he would have resigned eight months earlier than he did except that he was worried that Gerald Ford could not control Sec. of State Henry Kissinger.

"You know, Henry really is unstable at times," the pot said of the kettle.

There appears to be more than a grain

The justice department official presenting the proposal to the House subcommittee on immigration said the plan would not lead to requirements that all citizens carry a national identification card or internal passport. But he also did not specify what form of identification would be acceptable. And that leads to the obvious question, what would be? Easily-counterfeited Social Security cards or birth certificates? One or more of the hundreds of other scraps of paper or pieces of plastic by which Americans are identified? Which should an employer honor? Recognizing the relentlessness of the bureaucratic mind, it is safe to predict that someone will eventually suggest that if the plan is to work, it is to reduce the number of illegal aliens holding jobs, Americans will have to carry standard forms issued by the government to all citizens in good standing. And another blow will have been struck at individual identity. Americans are already numbered and indexed beyond belief. Almost everything they have ever done, every measure of human activity, is filed in some memory bank. Innermost thoughts are about the only things that are sacred anymore. Conversation certainly is not. It would be too much to ask to require citizens of this nation to carry passport to go downtown to look for a job.

Moreover, stemming the tide of illegal aliens flowing into this nation looking for jobs really should not be the responsibility of the private employer. That is one of the functions of government that taxpayers already cough up for.

We don't think it will sell. Americans, a restive, highly mobile people who prize freedom of movement and despise totalitarian trappings, will resent having their citizenship challenged at every place they seek work.

of truth to the former president's assessment of the genius architect of his foreign policy and the earnest mediocrity who is now the president.

Ford may not be able to control Kissinger. And Kissinger may well decide that it is time the U.S. teach the North Vietnamese another lesson.

The President is asking for more money for South Vietnam and he is in so many words stating a case for the preservation of the Thieu government at any cost. Kissinger's signature is on that policy.

Bombs away? That may not be as far off a possibility as it sounds.

Point of View

Contributions to this space from readers are welcome and will appear periodically as a special feature of our editorial page. Length of article should not exceed 800 words and publications must include the writer's name. Submit articles to "Point of View," The Lincoln Star, 926 P St., Lincoln, Nebr.

By JULIAN H. HOPKINS
Lincoln, Nebr.

In my opinion, the article in The Star's "Column A" story Monday morning, February 3, constitutes a biased attack on United Fund concept of federated fund-raising rather than a fair appraisal of its operation. It was represented to be investigative reporting which I admire and expect from a newspaper. In my opinion, it was not, since its approach was to raise questions where none really exists and attack an old friend of Lincoln.

I am a contributor and have also given my personal time and efforts in going through a series of fund campaigns ending up as a general campaign chairman, along with hundreds of other Lincoln citizens. I was astounded that The Star would publish a story about where my United Fund dollars goes without even mentioning the 31 volunteers who spend over six months of their volunteer time evaluating, reviewing and discussing the budgets of each agency, including the Red Cross, as well as the part of my United Fund dollar that goes to pay for an audit of each of these agencies so that I can be further assured that this money is spent in programs helping other Lincoln people, and not being put into the bank or other programs.

What does it cost to have services to people with emotionally disturbed children? It costs to hire a counselor, to pay the tax on his salary, to give him an office with heat and lights and a telephone so that parents can meet with him. This is what my United Fund dollar pays for, and it is for service to people who have this need.

The Star reports have tagged this an "administrative cost" implying that it does not do any of the things for people that United Fund purports to do. United Fund was not set up to deliver food baskets to poor people for our tax dollar provides this kind of service through county welfare and other financial assistance programs. United Fund has advertised itself as providing services to people, services such as counseling families under stress, providing for emergency shelter, giving youngsters opportunity to learn about themselves and others through group programs.

I know that there are problems with a United Fund approach to supporting agencies in Lincoln, but Star reporters have never even found them. One knows the problems like one who has worked to raise this goal. Instead, Mr. Holman and Ms. Switzer wrote an article which to me was intended to create controversy with distorted and inflammatory language. The biggest problems with United Fund are that agencies do not receive enough support to really meet the community needs because many people do not know or do not care and will not share anything for the benefit of their community.

The Star reporters interpreted the United Fund expenditures as though many people were getting rich, fat jobs from our gifts each year. Why didn't they say that volunteers hire and fire staff, volunteers make up the budget, volunteers raise the money and volunteers set the salaries? It may not be right, but we can also blame the disinterest and apathy of people who refuse to give their time and get involved in volunteer roles to make these decisions? I know of no other fund-raising organization that would have disclosed all of the figures that United Fund personnel made available to The Star and that attitude of honesty is admired by me and other contributors.

How regrettable that not everyone can pay his United Fund pledge, but it is true and it does emphasize the voluntary nature of such a gift. Consequently, money cannot be given to agencies to run services if pledges are not fulfilled and a budget for uncollectibles is only sound planning. Why didn't The Star story point out that people giving through payroll deduction, such as myself, cannot contribute when we aren't working?

Most of the pledges that are cancelled each year come from people who leave their jobs during the year. Why didn't this article point out with pride that people in Lincoln do better than most other cities in paying their pledges? Anyone can throw out accusations to which truth never catches up.

From a person who is fortunate enough to be able to give more than the average $37.50, I register my disappointment over The Star's attempt to disparage the efforts of a great many honest and concerned people in Lincoln who volunteer their time and ability to raise money, to budget money and to run programs of service to our community. United Fund is still the most effective, most efficient way for me to support services for people who live and work with me whom I know.

I also resent the implication that the staff of the Fund and the agencies who are capable, loyal, dedicated, are overpaid or have fringe benefits beyond other employees. I may be personal, but I think that it was unfair to the Red Cross not to mention that the funds from Lincoln support the national emergency program of the Red Cross. Maybe we shouldn't help anyone who is not a Lincoln resident. Anyone who thinks so should get involved and change the allocations, but be prepared to justify not helping in emergencies outside of Lincoln when Lincoln has been helped by the Red Cross in the past.

It's our fund. It will do as well as the community permits it to do by its support in time and money. Lincoln takes pride in being a good place in which to live. One effort that helps this is the United Fund. It isn't perfect, but it does more than the authors give it credit. I don't believe the authors had an issue, but a dull ax.

MARQUIS CHILDS

The Vietnam Torch

WASHINGTON — So much is in conflict between the President and the Congress that the added abrasion of the demand for $520 million for Indochina is just one too many. Yet all the signs point to the intention of the administration to push the demand to the limit.

The most significant sign was the way in which Vice President Nelson Rockefeller got himself ahead of the parade in a speech at a Republican rally in New Jersey.

He pulled out all the stops, going so far as to say that if the Democrats refuse the President's request, they will bear the blame for the loss of South Vietnam with the execution by the communists of perhaps a million victims.

This was reminiscent of the politics of nearly 30 years ago when the "loss" of China was pinned on the Democrats.

It went so far that Ron Nessen at the White House felt compelled to pull back a bit. He indicated there was no present intention to blame the Democrats for what might happen in Saigon.

It will be Democrats for the most part who carry the Vietnam torch if there is to be a serious effort to support the troubled regime of Nguyen Van Thieu with more American dollars.

Foremost among them is Democrat Sen John Stennis of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, who in the past has exerted great power over the whole military-intelligence establishment.

Evidence that that power has been greatly eroded came when Stennis was able to recruit only six other senators to oppose in the Democratic caucus the creation of a select committee to investigate the intelligence apparatus both foreign and domestic.

Despite denials from on high, the suspicion persists that if the worst comes to the worst in Saigon, the temptation to use American force will be irresistible.

That would be in defiance of an amendment adopted by the Congress prohibiting any future military assistance whether direct or indirect, on the land, in the air or in the offshore waters.

"That language is just not subject to any interpretation that would permit any form of intervention," says Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who, in collaboration with former Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, drafted the amendment. "Any such move would be a calamity and surely this administration doesn't need any more calamities," Church notes.

'The End Of The Tunnel Is At Hand'

The area of doubt feeding the suspicion is in the war powers act. While that act calls on the president to come to Congress to get approval for any military action, it provides what is, in effect, a two-months' grace period. During that time the commander-in-chief could ostensibly take emergency moves in order, for example, to protect American lives. But is this a loophole permitting at least initial intervention in the event of a disaster in Saigon? After all, a fair number of Americans, for one reason or another, are still in South Vietnam.

The sensible answer is in the negative.

Recent reports out of Saigon have a depressingly familiar ring. They tell of military incompetence and unwillingness to fight in the South Vietnamese attempt to prevent the communist takeover of Phuoc Binh, the first provincial capital captured by the Hanoi forces.

Many government troops were killed by imprecise high-altitude bombing, according to a dispatch to the New York Times, when the South Vietnamese air force was reluctantly called in to what it considered a hopeless fight.

Other dispatches tell of newspapers suppressed and editors put in jail for reporting the indictment of the regime's corruption by a religious group.

But the emotional cost whether the administration wins or loses this contest is bound to be great and that at a time when the capital of good will in the Ford bank is at a low point.

Demos May Abandon Jackson For Kennedy

WASHINGTON — The trouble with Sen. Scoop Jackson, who has just entered the presidential race, is that his name is misleading. In newspaper terms, "Scoop" means being ahead of events, but Jackson somehow always seems to be more than a little behind.

Nobody who knows him well will under-estimate him. He is highly intelligent, attractive, industrious, and experienced, but there is a paradox. He has been a potential presidential candidate for many years — almost made it in 1960 as Jack Kennedy's vice presidential partner. He has been ambitious and bold of mind ever since he came to Washington almost 35 years ago, but he always seems to be making the big decisions of life at the wrong time.

He married for the first time at 49 — so well and happily that it almost seems a shame to mention his Jeany. He spent 12 years in the House of Representatives, working hard and tipping his hat to the elders, and he has now been 23 years in the Senate, almost close to the center of the major questions but never quite bringing his thought to the point of decision.

Now, finally, he has come forward in a carefully casual announcement for the presidency on television, very serious, very contrived, and very persuasive. Nobody can accuse Scoop of rushing forward too soon: He will be 64 by the time the Democrats choose a presidential candidate in the summer of 1976.

Age, however, is not Scoop's major problem. After all, Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts is the only leading presidential candidate in his forties. He will be 44 at convention time in 1976, and says he's not available. It might be wise to suspend judgment on this point.

As for the other prominent candidates, President Ford will be 63 in the summer of 1976; Vice President Rockefeller will be 68; Hubert Humphrey and Ronald Reagan will be 65; Senator Muskie 62, and Governor Wallace of Alabama, 57. Compared to any of them except Kennedy, Jackson is full of bounce and fight.

The question about him is whether he is still in tune with the public mood. With popular sentiment highly volatile under both economic and foreign pressures, who knows? Much will depend on events between now and August of '76.

Jackson has come to national prominence as a critic of just about everything the Ford administration is doing. He is against Ford's Vladivostok agreement with Brezhnev on the control of nuclear weapons. He is against Kissinger's step-by-step diplomacy in the Middle East.

He thinks we should be tougher on the Soviets and suggests that by so doing, we can force them to make more concessions on arms control and the emigration of Soviet Jews to Israel. In the process, he has become the darling of the pro-Israeli faction and the protectionist labor union leaders in the U.S. He has also become the villain of the big shots in the Kremlin.

Meanwhile, Jackson has been almost nostalgic for old struggles. He has been a New Deal liberal on most domestic issues, and he has been in the Senate long enough now so that he has a prominent platform in the committees from which he can bowl against Ford's economic and energy policies scald Big Business (except the big airplane companies) and woo the voters who are sore about prices, unemployment and the inflation in general.

All this is standard politics. It was a fairly good program for the old days of the cold war, and it is not a bad headline-catcher now. At a time when almost everybody is in doubt about everything, Scoop never seems to be in doubt about anything, so he was all over the television, fussing with Ford and Kissinger, even before he announced what everybody knew that one day he would be presented on TV — as he now has been, as "The Man for America's Future."

Maybe it will work, for the country is troubled and looking for something new that will bring it together. But this also may be precisely Jackson's problem. For his appeal is from the days of the old battles with the foreign villains and the Big Business devils at home, and the chances are that this quarrelsome approach will not bring the country or the Democrats together, but split them apart.

Jackson, of course, has announced for the presidency early enough so that he could change. He knows his party well. He was Jack Kennedy's choice as chairman of the Democratic National Committee when they won in 1960, and he learned in George McGovern's campaign of 1972 that dividing the Democratic Party was a sure way to elect the Republicans.

So lately he has been concentrating more and more on domestic issues, and turning down his combative instincts on foreign policy. He now appears to be wondering whether it is a good idea to follow his old Pentagon line and send over half a billion dollars to Southeast Asia — a modest advance. But for Jackson, quite a change.

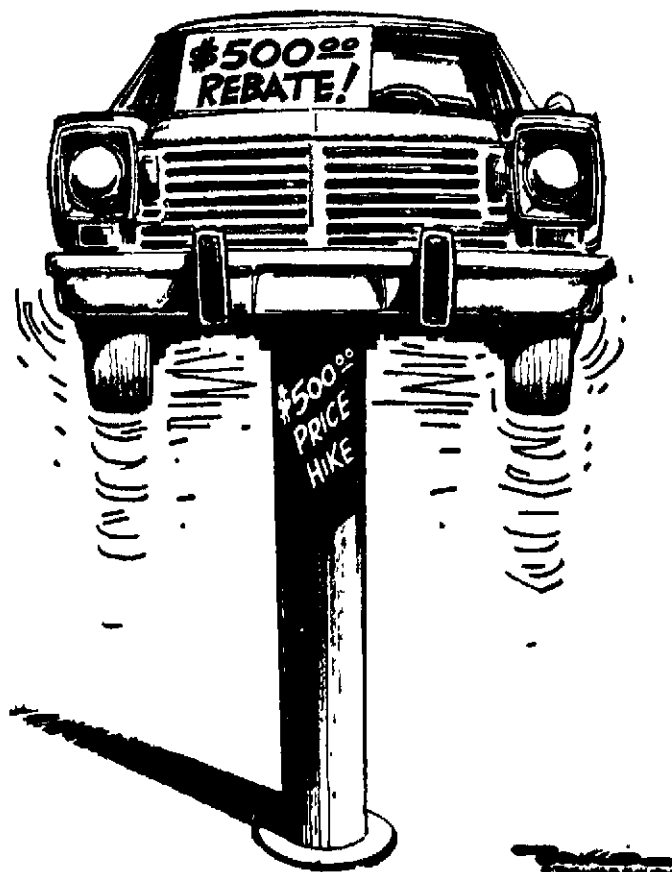

Nevertheless, his entrance into the race doesn't really change the predicament of the Democratic Party. It has been out of power for two terms. It now has a chance to run against the Republicans on Vietnam, Watergate and the recession, and should win in 1976 with any candidate who could sweep the primaries and hold the rebel factions of the party together.

But there is little evidence at this point that Jackson or any other Democrat can do it. The qualities that have brought Jackson to prominence — his challenges to Kissinger on the Soviets, his coziness with George Meany of the A.F.L.-C.I.O., and the pro-Israeli faction — are precisely the qualities that threaten the policy of detente, trouble the Western allies, and divide the Democrats.

The outlook for the Democratic Party at this point is for a deeply divided party and convention in 1976, with no one candidate coming near to a majority for nomination. If this happens, unless Jackson or somebody else breaks out of the pack in the primaries, the Democratic Party elders will probably have to broker it in the back room.

If this happens, the guess here is that they will probably turn to Kennedy in the end. It would be a desperate risk, and Kennedy scoffs at it in private, but the Democrats are in desperate straits — with everything to win and nobody to win it with — and they might just go with the 44-year-old Kennedy in the pinch against the other candidates, who are in their sixties.

So state tax rates are going up next year. Well, as one state senator very privately suggested last week, "it's about time."

The personal income tax rate in Nebraska has dropped each of the past three years — from a high of 15% in 1972 to the current 10%.

The state sales tax rate has been more stable, remaining at 2 1/2% since 1970.

Low tax rates are a politically popular commodity, but in Nebraska already low rates have been made even lower during the 1970s. We've overdone it.

An electorate which probably would have been pleased just to have tax rates remain stable was "treated" to rate reductions instead. Income tax rate reductions have been ordered by the Legislature and by the State Board of Equalization. Twice, reductions by the latter agency have been imposed over the objections of Governor Exon.

Since everyone plays politics with tax rates, there is no intention here to point fingers at one side or another or to attempt to fix blame for the rate juggling.

Those who ordered rate reductions would respond that the law required it, that only the revenue needed to meet appropriations obligations can legally be raised by taxation. But that requirement involves so many judgment calls that the rates could just as easily be left unchanged as reduced.

There was political jockeying for citizen favor in each and every tax rate reduction decision.

While all this maneuvering has been going on, an unwritten law began to dominate state government decisions.

Thou Shalt Not Raise Tax Rates!

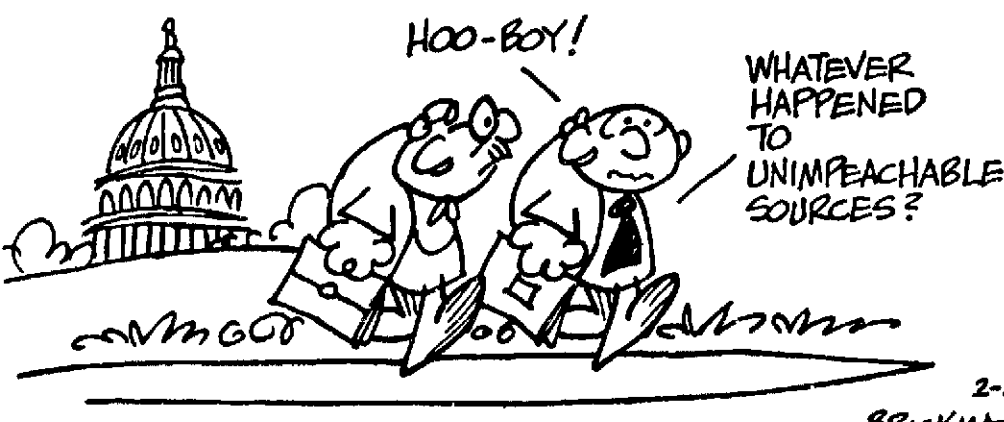

It has been almost as if the sacred words were written in stone.

So once the tax rate was dropped, executive and legislative budget decisions began to be tailored to the revenue available from the new and reduced rate.

The current tax rate began to dictate the

Nixon Life To Be Even Lonelier

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon entered a new phase of his life Sunday a lonely and troubled man, and despite a show of hope and even humor, "physically and emotionally, the trauma still lingers on," said Rabbi Baruch Korff.

Nixon lost most of his staff, his fleet of 11 cars and his office complex Sunday, the last day of a six-month transition period to adjust from chief executive to private citizen. Nixon resigned Aug. 9 in the wake of the Watergate scandal.

Korff said he did not attend Nixon's party Saturday night for the departing staff. Some of those present said he looked more tan and fit than he had in recent months. The rabbi suggested Nixon's mood was less cheerful than it might have appeared.

"He made a serious effort to convey an impression of gregariousness, hope, and even humor because he felt so strongly that he did not want the staff to leave in sadness," Korff stated.

Korff, who met with reporters at the San Clemente Inn, near Nixon's seaside villa, described the former president as tormented and drained.

"President Nixon is a lonely and troubled man," he said.

Korff heads the President Nixon Justice

Fund, which is trying to raise money to pay the former chief executive's bills.

Korff said Nixon continues to agonize over Watergate and has acknowledged that it was the scandal that led him to resign.

He said Nixon still owes a balance of $175,000 on his total legal expenses of $275,000, and about $23,000 on a $34,000 medical bill. Korff said the Justice Fund, which already paid for $100,000 in legal fees, has only about $10,700 left.

Some of those at Saturday night's party said the former president was tan, walked without a limp and seemed to especially enjoy the "roasting" of his military aide, Col. Jack Brennan.

Korff said he chose not to attend the party because "I couldn't face the extreme effort that I knew he would undertake to shield from his employees his frustration and unhappiness."

The private affair came to light after guests adjourned to the San Clemente Inn, where Secret Service agents and reporters stayed during the days when Nixon's estate was known as the Western White House.

Nixon's long-time personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, and his former press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, attended both gatherings. However, the Nixons did not attend the second affair.

According to some who attended the party, Nixon greeted each guest and distributed autographed photos of himself. He was clad in his customary dark suit and tie, they said.

When Nixon first arrived at the sprawling, Spanish-style villa he calls La Casa Pacifica, he had a transition staff of about 30 aides and federal employees. That number had dwindled to a dozen by Saturday and, effective Sunday, only four remained on the payroll.

Congress appropriated $100,000 for Nixon's transition expenses through Sunday, and another $100,000 for the next six months. That was well below the $850,000 requested by President Ford and less, some Nixon aides say, than expenses allowed former Presidents Lyndon Johnson and Dwight Eisenhower.

Both President Eisenhower and President Johnson had a White House phone until the day of their deaths, an aide who asked not to be identified told two reporters on a recent tour of the San Clemente compound. "LBJ had planes assigned at an Air Force base.

Although Nixon lost his office complex on the Coast Guard station adjoining his estate, he will retain office and storage space there.

42 Aboard Plane Lost Off Crete

SOUDA, Crete (AP) — A West German transport plane with 42 persons aboard apparently crashed into the sea Sunday as it approached this Greek island during the most severe storm of the winter, an airport spokesman said.

A sea and air search operation failed to find any wreckage and was called off overnight because of darkness and bad weather.

The airport spokesman said the plane carried 40 West German military personnel headed for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's tactical missile base at nearby Khania and two crew members.

The plane, flying here from West Germany, was 16 miles out when the pilot radioed a distress signal to the Souda control tower, saying the craft was crashing into the sea, the spokesman added. He said the pilot did not say why the plane was in trouble.

Heart Fund Princess Crowned

Gov. J. James Exon Sunday crowned 7-year-old Pamela Carlson of Papillion the 1975 Heart Fund Princess at the Nebraska Heart Association's annual Governor's Tea at the Governor's Mansion. The daughter of Air Force Maj. Michael and Sharon Carlson, Pamela's congenital heart defect was discovered in late 1971. In May 1974, open heart surgery was successfully performed on Pamela. Business Bribes Soaring, Attorney Says

The New York Times

New York — Business kickbacks, bribes and embezzlements are on the rise — and the consumer is paying for them, according to Herbert Robinson, a prominent New York attorney.

Kickbacks, secret investments in supply companies, conflict-of-interest situations and embezzlement in various forms are rising sharply in a depressed economy, when executives under pressure act illegally or take advantage of "inside" situations in their companies, Robinson said.

Robinson, a partner in Liebman, Eulau, Robinson & Perlman, Inc., has several decades of experience prosecuting business frauds. He is currently involved in the W. T. Grant Co.'s case against three discharged executives for allegedly taking bribes and against a shopper developer charged with giving them. The incidence of illegality is increasing among executives who fear decreased income in the present economic situation, Robinson asserted. At the same time, he said, suppliers who are under pressure are themselves enticing industrial customers to accept "gifts" for favored treatment.

To compensate for this cost, the suppliers are adding anywhere from 2% in the apparel industry to as much as 33 1/3% in the printing industry to the price of their products or services. It is reflected in retail prices that the public pays, the attorney said.

"Payoffs" and conflict-of-interest situations in which there are illegals involve a cost of $14 billion this year, about 1% of the gross national product, he estimated. Some 30 years ago, he said, such crimes involved less than $1 billion.

"Certainly, I do not mean to impugn most businessmen," Robinson said. "But the problem is that many managements are squeamish even today about exposing internal situations because they don't want the breath of scandal to fall upon their companies. But as the recession continues, I think more of them will take action because business crimes inevitably lead to higher costs."

Kissinger Must Share Blame, Jackson Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger must share blame for collapse of the Soviet-American trade agreement for his failure to notify Congress of Russian opposition to certain provisions in the pact, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Sunday.

"I'm charging him with a failure to keep the Senate fully and currently informed," Jackson said on NBC's Meet the Press program. "When he complains about the Senate interfering in foreign affairs, I say he's on weak ground because we have a right to ask for openness." Kissinger has blamed Congress for Soviet rejection of the agreement, complaining Jackson's insistence on more liberal Soviet emigration rules for Jews was a key factor in the collapse.

Jackson, who announced last week he will be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976, said Kissinger and President Ford knew on Oct. 26 of Soviet opposition to certain provisions, but didn't make their information public until after Congress approved the agreement.

Linda LeWorthy Dies; Active On Theater Scene

Linda LeWorthy, 57, of 540 Lakewood Drive, died Sunday. She was the wife of a Lincoln surgeon, Dr. G. William LeWorthy, and had been active for a number of years in local theater groups.

Mrs. LeWorthy was a graduate of Massillon State (Ohio) School of Nursing and had served in the Army Nurse Corps in combat zones in Europe during World War II. Born in Cleveland, Ohio, she had been a resident of Lincoln the past 18 years.

Mrs. LeWorthy had been president of Theater Inc., which produces the Summer Meller-drammas, and she had been a member and was a past vice president of the Lincoln Community Playhouse Guild.

She had also served as a campaign chairman for the Lincoln

Community Concert Association, for the Broadway Theater League, and for the Playhouse, and had been a member of the Playhouse board.

She was a member and a past board member of the Lincoln Unitarian Church, and was also a member of the Heritage League of Lincoln, the local and state Medical Auxiliaries, the Nebraska Art Association, the Lincoln Symphony Guild and was a volunteer worker for the Community Blood Bank.

She is survived by her husband, her mother, Mrs. Emily Miner of St. Petersburg, Fla., and a sister, Mrs. Virginia May of Belmont, Calif.

Memorial services will be held at the Lincoln Unitarian Church 8 p.m. Thursday.

Lincoln-Area Youths Win JA Leadership Awards

Three Lincoln-area youths won Junior Achievement leadership awards for their work in group discussions during the Dialog '75 conference in Lincoln over the weekend.

Lincoln High School senior Bruce Gottsleben took one of the two outstanding leadership awards, which carried a $25 prize. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Derald Gottsleben, 2615 C St. His Junior Achievement company is called New Spirit, sponsored by United Airlines.

Marcie Whitcomb, 16, a Southeast High School junior, and Steve Kell, 16, a Waverly

High School junior, won the other two leadership awards. Parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Whitcomb, 3400 Woodshire Parkway, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kell, RFD Eight.

Kell's Junior Achievement company is Firmco, sponsored by First Mid America. Miss Whitcomb's company is also New Spirit.

A total of 38 leadership awards were made Sunday. About 350 Junior Achievers and 35 adult chaperones represented Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Illinois, Kansas and Oklahoma at the conference.

Jewelry-Making Practical, Economical

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

"A — not I" "You mean there are no 'E's'"
No, it's not a line from "My Fair Lady" or kids playing with the alphabet soup — it's a teenager trying to put together a bracelet with a name spelled out with baby beads.

At a favorite hangout after school and on Saturdays, the Jewelart store, about the only grumble one hears from teenagers is when the jewelry-making supply is low in the baby bead area. And use of baby beads is not limited to the teenage set.

One woman said she used them for decorating the tops of baby gift packages since the hospitals no longer furnish parents the baby bead identification bracelets.

Also high on the youths' popularity list are wooden bead necklaces or necklaces and bracelets made from clam shell hishi discs in assorted sizes, in addition to the ever-popular dangle earrings and finger rings.

"You can really make some neat things for practically nothing," one girl remarked when she was complimented on her earrings.

She said she made them herself and they only cost her a few cents and a little time.

Another 14-year-old girl, who said she had been making jewelry — including earrings, bracelets and necklaces — for about a year, said she had made several pieces and given them for gifts.

"They didn't cost me hardly anything," she explained with pleasure, adding, that "people seemed to like them, too."

According to Pamela Harn, owner and manager of Jewelart, who teaches the art of jewelry making to interested groups, all ages of both men and women are buying materials for jewelry — beads, stones, chains, filigree, hooks and earwires.

Contending that it is very simple, Mrs. Harn said that jewelry-making is popular because of its low cost. Practically any earring can be made for less than $1.00 and some for as little as 22 cents a pair.

The long chains are especially popular with mature women, Mrs. Harn said, noting that many women see a particular necklace on a friend or in a store and then purchase the materials to duplicate that particular piece of jewelry.

Restoring old jewelry with the necessary wires and hooks and added beads or jewels is also popular with mature women while college men are making jewelry for resale and retired men are creating jewelry items as a hobby, Mrs. Harn said.

Teenage Goal Is Pierced Ears

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Pierced ears are as much a part of "being in" for the teenage and younger set as wearing flared jeans.

It has become such a necessary evil that many girls request pierced ears for a birthday or Christmas gift from parents.

And, according to many mothers, if parents are reluctant at first to approve of this major step in the life of their daughter, they will eventually "give in or give out."

However, some parents refuse to yield to their daughters' "faddy whims."

Decide When 18

One mother of two teenage daughters said that she told the older daughter that when she was 18 and old enough to make her own decisions she could decide if she still wanted pierced ears.

She said the younger daughter had not mentioned pierced ears and the older daughter now has no desire for them and has expressed gratitude to her mother for being firm on the issue.

But most physicians see little problem with teenage girls having their ears pierced.

Dr. Jon Hinrichs, a Lincoln general practitioner, said that piercing ears is a "simple harmless and safe procedure."

However, he said, whether one should have her ears pierced is "entirely up to the individual, and it is necessary that care be taken afterwards so that the ears are kept clean to avoid infection."

Not Under 10

Several pediatricians said they pierce many youngsters' ears but will not pierce the ears of a child under the age of 10 unless it is part of a religious rite or custom.

According to Dr. Harlan Shriner, a Lincoln pediatrician, the procedure is a very simple one providing proper care is taken to prevent infection.

He said he and other pediatricians with whom he is associated give a lengthy explanation to the child and parent on keeping the earlobes and the hair clean.

Long hair can be a problem if it is not kept washed, and one of the reasons for not piercing ears until a youngster is at least 10, Dr. Shriner said, is to insure that the child can assume some of the responsibility for care to prevent infection.

Because pierced ears are so in vogue for the teenage set, Dr. Shriner noted that many parents are making it a tenth birthday gift to their daughters.

Plastic Bottles Score Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — Department of Commerce figures show that plastic bottle production scored another 7 per cent gain in 1973 and is increasing again this year, reports the Society of the Plastics Industry.

Between 1972 and 1973, blow-molded plastic bottle production jumped to 7.4 billion units from 6.9 billion.

An analysis of the figures shows significant gains in the household chemical, food and beverage, and automotive and marine categories with a moderate gain in packaging for industrial chemicals.

Major growth was recorded in the medicinal and health, and toiletries and cosmetics categories.

Natural Materials Mainstay Of Spring Jewelry Offerings

Spring lines in jewelry for all ages reflect a lightness of spirit with some designs being just fun and others dainty and delicate.

Teenagers love natural materials like horn, ivory, rope and braided or woven leather and the old fashioned pendant is also popular with the more feminine dresses.

Clerks in downtown Lincoln department stores say that pierced earrings which cost about $2 per pair are so popular that they have difficulty keeping them in stock.

Also popular in Lincoln according to a clerk in Miller & Paine are personalized leather wristlets which have painted flowers bordering the tooled in name.

She said that her department has reordered the inch-wide wristlets three times since November.

Bracelets for all ages will include the naturals made of wood, wicker, cork and straw in narrow to nearly two-inch widths.

According to Fashion Accessories of New York, the bracelets for spring are to be worn in clusters with colorful knife-edge plastic or metal bangles individually interspersed and should be accompanied by nonchalant wood hoop earrings.

Other bracelets the publication says are part of the look of real palette including tones of amethyst, jade, amber and ivory.

Necklaces of khaki beads combined with coral and mother of pearl which may be interspersed with a whisper of gold will be popular along with the gold and silver wire neck rings and chains.

Of particular interest this year are white enameled metal combined with gold or silver and pins in the form of butterflies, fish and animals.

Snacking Said Teeth Destroyer

(c) Chicago Daily News
Chicago — The popular American practice of between-meal snacking is causing more tooth decay than would occur if even a greater amount of candy were eaten at one time, a dental scientist said recently.

Dr. Basil G. Bibby of Rochester, N.Y., said each time foods containing sugar are taken into the mouth, a fermentation process is set off, creating an acid that attacks the tooth enamel.

If one eats all day, there is one attack after another, he said, but if the sweets are taken only once, preferably at mealtime, there is one attack for up to 10 minutes and it is over until the next meal.

The other important factor is the type of food, he added. Low-sugar starchy foods that tend to stick to the teeth may cause more decay than high-sugar foods leaving the mouth quickly.

Girls have more decay than boys even though they eat less sugar and baked goods. But they snack more frequently, said Bibby.

Fat in food tends to reduce retention in the mouth and carbonation in liquid tends to speed removal.

Bibby, a research associate at the Eastman Dental Center, said many dentists are mistaken in assuming a one-to-one relationship exists between sugar consumption and dental cavities.

The manner in which sugar is used is of more importance than the total amount eaten, he said.

He added, however, there is no dispute that sugar in any form contributes to dental decay.

The repeated insult to the teeth in the form of between-meal snacking is going to be progressively harder for dentists to combat, he points out in the Journal of the American Dental Assn.

Social and industrial influences have made snacking a permanent fixture in daily living. Even doctors are suggesting that persons with particular medical problems eat more but smaller meals.

If this is going to happen, we will have to make the habit as harmless to the teeth as possible," he declared.

He suggested studying snack foods to see which produce the least amount of acid for the time spent in the mouth, add chemicals to them, such as phosphates, to inhibit acid, use non-caloric sweeteners or come up with new types of snack foods.

Georgia Student Addresses Letter To Boston

DEAR ABBY: For the last few months, I have been reading and hearing about the riots and demonstrating at the Boston schools. I wish some of them would visit my school for one week.

I am a white, senior girl at a totally integrated high school. This is our fifth year of total integration, and I guess this is the reason I cannot understand the people of Boston.

The president of our student body is black, and he chose me as his secretary. Working together, we forget the color of our skin and concentrate on the common goal of the students — to have the best school ever.

In my high school years I have gone through many changes along with my classmates. I have learned to love according to character, not color. I have learned about life other than as an upper-middle-class white. I have made many black friends that I wouldn't trade for anything or anybody. I feel that our school has made a great step forward for our country. It's only a start, but it's an improvement.

I am asking the people of Boston to please give desegregation a chance. We live in this country together yet you are afraid to reach out to a fellow

American. Please open your eyes! This is America, and we are all free. Why can't we love each other without prejudice? Won't you help me say it, Abby? Just sign me—

STUDENT HENRY
COUNTY SR. HIGH
MCDONOUGH, GA.

DEAR STUDENT: You've said it well. And I'm willing to give your message of goodwill and common sense wider circulation.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the wife who had a fit when she caught her husband using her toothbrush (he couldn't find his) brought back memories.

Several years ago, when I was a young divorcee, I fell in love with a divorced man. We wanted to be married in a church by a minister, but finding one who would marry two divorced people wasn't easy in those days.

We finally found a minister who said he might perform the ceremony if we would answer some questions first. After a few minutes of chitchat, he hit us with the big question: "If you had no other choice, would you use your mate's toothbrush?"

At the time we both thought that was about the dumbest question we'd ever heard, but we thought for a few minutes and both said: "Yes."

The minister smiled and said: "Using someone else's toothbrush is positive proof of total commitment. I'll perform the ceremony." And he did.

We've laughed about it since then, but now we realize how wise he was.

HAPPY IN FORT PIERCE, FLA.

DEAR HAPPY: Thanks for brushing me up on what constitutes "total commitment." It's better than a paste in the mouth.

DEAR ABBY: Bruce and I are both in our early twenties and have been happily married for two years. A rather peculiar situation has arisen between us and I would appreciate your opinion.

Several nights in the past month I have been awakened by my husband's amorous advances, which culminate in making love. Bruce never said anything during these encounters, but was otherwise unusually loving and aggressive.

Afterwards we slept in the morning when I made subtle comments regarding his previous night's behavior, he always seemed to miss the point, so I didn't pursue it.

Last night it happened again.

lobes. I searched her face for tears and pain. She was smiling, but her eyes were not. I knew whatever she said would be a lie. "Just stings a little." Ha, ha, I thought.

I went to the gallows and the nurse said, "Another ear job?"

I asked her if I was too old for this (hoping) but she said an 84-year-old woman was in last week and I was younger than that. Outside, maybe.

The instrument looked like dad's chicken punch and I joined the chicken ranks again. Too late, too late. The deed was done.

Out to the waiting room with my rose earlobes and to my smiling friend whose eyes were not. My eyes joined hers. We giggled and jabbered and stopped at a nearby seashore. We planned our earring wardrobes. Such ecstasy in matching gems to our dresses and suits. Such freedom from clip-ons.

But first, let's go home, find some ice cubes to cool our hot lobes, and lie down awhile. Would we do it again? Nothing to it. But don't look in our eyes.

just as before, but I suddenly realized what was so strange about it. Bruce had been sound asleep!

What bothers me is this: How does a woman interpret such behavior? Could it indicate infidelity (or the desire for it) on my husband's part? Sign me . . .
WIDE AWAKE

DEAR WIDE: Why look for interpretations? Such encounters needn't be examined for unconscious motivations. And whether they're endured or enjoyed is for you to decide.

DEAR ABBY: A reader whose job it was to deliver newspapers complained because he couldn't read the house numbers in the dark of the early morning.

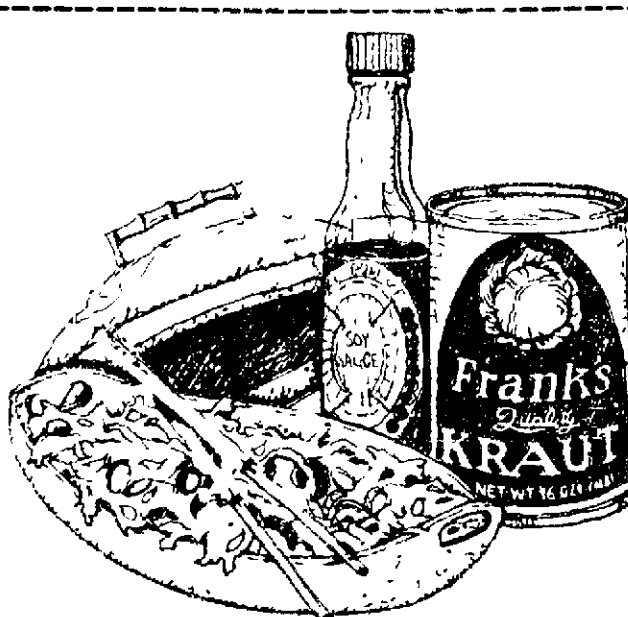

As a member of the Great Falls, Va. Volunteer Fire

Department, I share the concern over the lack of house numbers, but it's not to make deliveries. Our department must not only make fire calls; we also run ambulances to homes and highway accidents.

Probably less than one third of the homes in our area have numbers on their mail boxes. Practically none have numbers on their houses.

When someone is acutely ill or seriously injured, the time wasted looking for the right house number can make the difference between life and death.

Abby, will you please urge people to put their street numbers in visible places so all emergency, police, fire and ambulance calls can be answered as promptly as possible?

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

Assume the contract is six spades and West leads a club which you win with the ace. What would you do next?

You might start to draw trumps, expecting to make seven, but, when West showed out, you'd begin to have doubts about even making six.

And if you stopped drawing trumps in order to test the diamonds by playing the A-K, your worst fears would be realized after East ruffed the king and returned a club. You would ruff, of course, but would finish down one.

You could attribute the result to bad luck, all right, but close analysis reveals that the contract is always ice-cold.

Harry Fishbein, celebrated New York expert, played the hand many years ago and made the slam in a perfectly simple way. He won the club with the ace and ruffed a club at trick two.

This innocent play made all the difference between making the slam and going down one. When he then led the ace of spades and West showed out, Fishbein cashed the queen of hearts before playing the A-K of diamonds.

The long-range effect of the club ruff at trick two became manifest when East had to decide whether to ruff the king of diamonds. If he ruffed he would have to put dummy on lead whatever he returned and Fishbein would be able to discard two diamonds on the A-K of hearts.

When East declined to ruff, Fishbein persisted with the queen of diamonds and East discarded again. Fishbein then ruffed a diamond in dummy, which East overruffed, but that was the only trick he lost.

Brewery Puts Show Horses Out To Pasture

Baltimore (AP) — Among the latest casualties of the economic situation are the National Brewing Co.'s team of show Shire horses.

A company spokesman said the 19 Shires will either be housed on a farm in Carroll County, Md., or loaned to the American Shire Horses Association. The company will retain ownership of the animals.

Company spokesman Bruce Frame blamed the tough economic outlook as the reason for the decision. "We have to go without luxuries," he said.

The horses appeared at 45 fairs and parades across the nation last year.

Crop Residues Used For Forage

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The fuel shortage, the feed shortage and the shortage of hard cash are driving farmers and scientists at the University of Nebraska to do some far-out things this winter.

The invention of machines to gather corn stalks, milo stubble and other drop residue into stacks that can be moved has encouraged farmers to seek these products as livestock feed.

The shortage of fuel has also caused farmers to seek new ways of powering irrigation systems.

Institute pushed
The farmers have really been putting the pressure on the scientists at the NU Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources for answers to newly discovered problems.

"They are asking us what they ought to charge for a stack of corn stalks, for example, and what it costs to feed cattle this way," said Dr. Howard Wittmuss of the department of agricultural engineering.

Wittmuss estimated that it costs somewhere around $20 just to make a stack of forage and possibly as much as $10 more to move it, depending on whether you count your labor and how far the stacks are hauled.

"When you figure as much as $10 per ton for the feed and then the cost of panels around the stacks and electric fencing plus a stock tank and some other items, it really adds up," he said.

Wittmuss said once the equipment is purchased it usually lasts several years, leaving only the labor and fuel involved in the annual out-of-pocket cost.

Dr. Kenneth Von Barga is experimenting with a combination of using stacks and grazing to feed 160 cows — some with calves — to find answers for farmers.

"I am pretty well convinced of some things. I am sure that you need to have some kind of panel or manger around the stacks or they will trample about half of it into waste," he said.

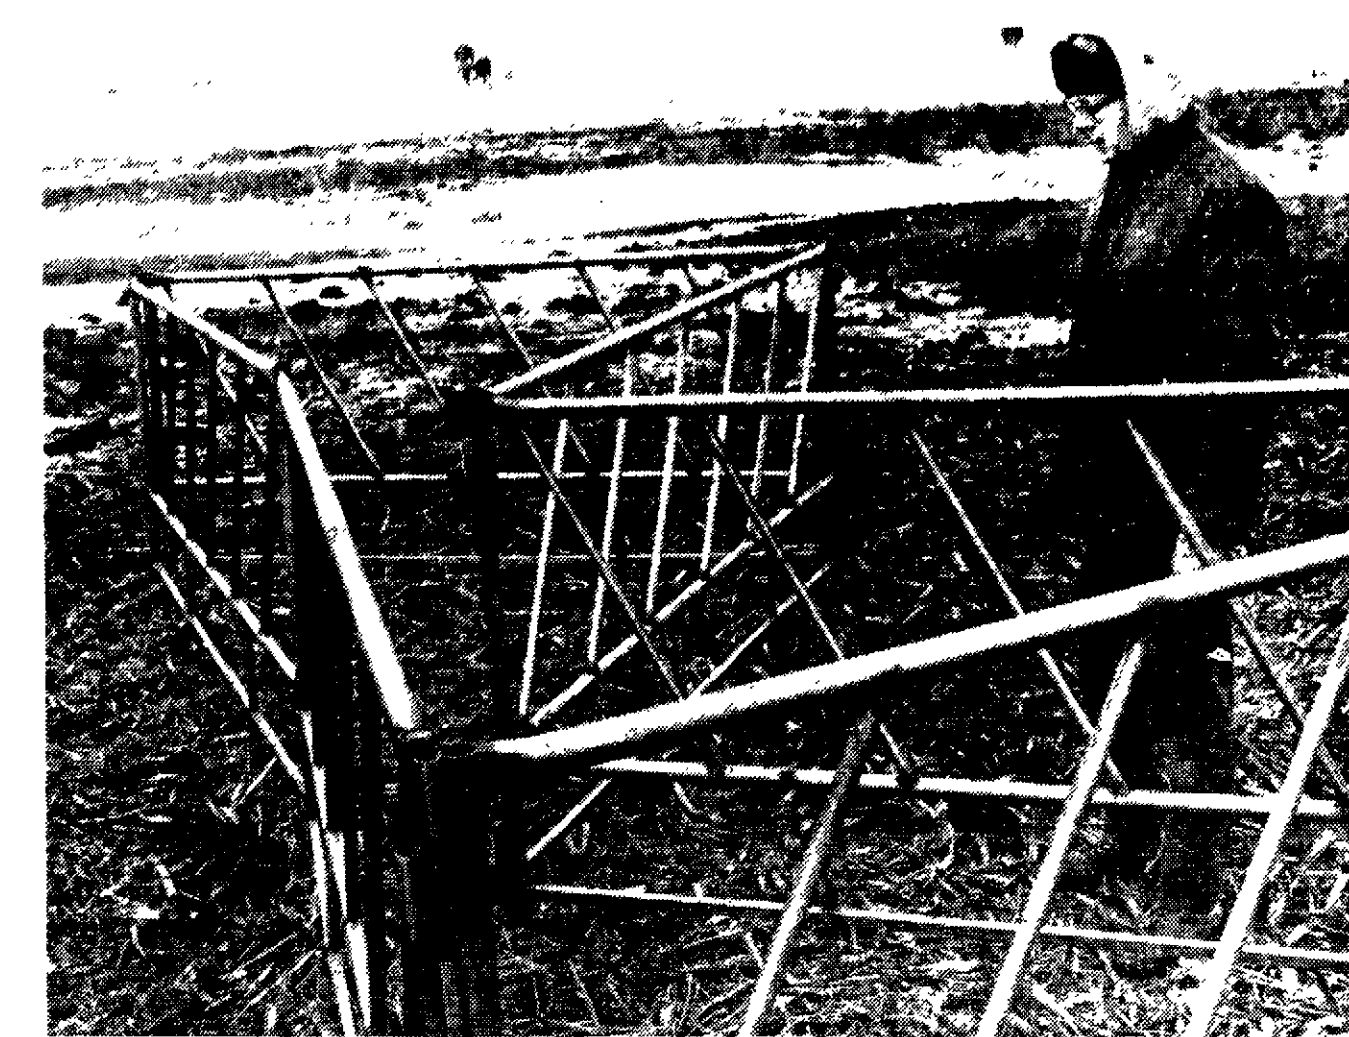

Von Barga added that the system of allowing cattle to graze as much as possible and limiting feeding stacks to bad weather seemed to be the lowest cost method.

"For one thing the cows spread their own manure. It saves harvesting costs and work and you don't have to have a feedlot for cows," he said.

40 Days Of Feed
Von Barga believes that in eastern Nebraska you need to count on about 40 days of stack feeding out of the normal winter grazing season between harvest and spring planting to be sure of keeping your cows alive until spring.

"There is a gap between spring planting and when pastures are ready to handle cows in mid-May that we haven't any answers for yet," he said.

Wittmuss has suggested another purpose for crop residue

PANEL SYSTEM ... examined by Von Barga has hinge in the middle.

that ties in with a suggestion by Dr. Bill Splinter of the same department.

Splinter wants to try coal-fired steam engines to run irrigation equipment, but Wittmuss thinks the fuel may already be there.

"Suppose we harvest the dry corn stalks and store them. They would be a source of fuel for the steam engine or you might even make gas from them like the coal gasification plants you hear so much about," he said.

Dr. John Ward of the animal science department has been working on yet another angle of the problem. How good is the feed quality?

Ward now has some information on how farmers need to supplement the crop residue with additional vitamin, protein and mineral feed to keep cattle healthy on the cheap diet.

This information is available to farmers through the local county Extension agent.

The scientists are planning to run studies on how much crop residue can be removed from the soil without hurting soil fertility since the plants have some value as nutrients for next year's crop.

It is just possible the best use for crop residue is as fertilizer for next year's crop. If a value as fertilizer can be established for the residue, it can be charged against the cost of removing the material as fuel or as livestock feed.

These problems are just samples of the increasing demand for new technology by farmers from their scientists. "They are really pushing us," commented Dr. Duane Acker, vice chancellor of the new Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

The benefit to the nonfarmer is in adequate supplies of meat at the lowest possible cost.

Weekly Grain Report

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

There is good reason to avoid panic selling of wheat just because of a drop in the price and fears of an overwhelmingly large crop this year.

We may yet have weather problems that could reduce the potential of the wheat crop, and there are plenty of reasons to believe that export demand from the U.S.S.R. and other wheat buyers in both eastern and western Europe will be very great in 1975 and '76.

For one thing the western end of Nebraska, which produces about half of the state's wheat crop, is really dry with very little snow cover to protect the wheat. Much the same kind of weather has persisted in significantly large areas of other states. These areas are much smaller than troubled areas were last year, but they are there and quite real.

Russia, the eastern European Communist nations and even the Western nations have had a poor planting season for winter wheat due to a lot of rain and very little snow.

Russia has launched a major expansion of its grain storage facilities, because in a bumper crop year the stuff spoils on the ground. They also need to make improvements in their transportation system, which tends to have backhaul problems from seaports for imports because it is designed to export rather than to import.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., insists on regulation of Russian emigration problems, but that may have hurt our sales of any farm crop. The cold hard facts of hunger are going to be hard to ignore even in a nation run under a dictator. We still have a market for all our wheat.

State Hits 109% Of Bond Sales Goal

Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds in Nebraska during 1974 totaled $67,620,892 for 109% of the state sales goal, according to N.R. Phillips, state director. Series E sales of $58.8 million showed an increase of $9.7 million over 1973, and Series H, bonds of $8.7 million were up by $1.3 million. During 1974, more than 17,700 additional employees in firms throughout the state joined the payroll savings plan or increased their savings allotments, Phillips said.

Exeter Breeders, Feeders Meet Slated

Exeter — Sessions throughout the day are planned for the 34th annual Exeter Breeders and Feeders Day to be held Thursday, Feb. 20. A panel of grain and red meat producers along with Glenn Kreuscher, state director of agriculture, will open the program in the morning. A tour of the Meat and Animal Research at Clay Center is scheduled for the afternoon. Dr. Gary Smith, animal science professor at Texas A & M, will be guest speaker at the evening banquet.

Tripe Named Hastings City Forester

Hastings — James C. Tripe, 26 year-old native of Orleans, has assumed his duties as Hastings city forester, a post which has been vacant since November, 1972. A graduate of the University of Missouri, Tripe is a Vietnam veteran, serving in the U.S. Army from 1969-71.

Dr. Phillips Moves To McCook

McCook — A desire for a small town practice has resulted in bringing a California doctor to McCook in a partnership with a former college roommate. Dr. Robert Phillips, 51, has arrived here to practice with Dr. Don Morgan. The two roomed together while attending the University of Nebraska and during their years at the NU Medical School in Omaha. Dr. Phillips, son of Mrs. R. A. Phillips of Lincoln, spent the last three years at the Kaiser Permanente Hospital in Los Angeles.

Steckelberg Named Outstanding Educator

Neligh — Darrell Steckelberg has been named the outstanding young educator of Neligh by the Antelope County Jaycees. He will now represent the local Jaycees in state competition at Kearney March 1-2. A native of Osmond, Steckelberg came to Neligh nine years ago and serves as industrial arts instructor and junior high coach. He is currently president of the District 3 Nebraska Teacher's Association.

Job Hunt For UNL Grads 'Going To Be Lot Tougher'

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

The job market for graduating University of Nebraska-Lincoln seniors "is going to be a lot tougher" in 1975 than it was a year ago, said Frank Hallgren, UNL Career Planning and Placement Office director.

Hallgren said the state of the economy affecting the job market is only one factor making some graduates' career ideals impossible to attain and job hunt a lot tougher.

In the job market ahead, he said, students must "take a very cold look at the restrictions which they are placing on themselves." He noted, however, resistance to explore or accept compromises in types of jobs or locations doesn't always preclude getting work.

Students Often Naive

"The individuals who had the greatest difficulty" in landing jobs, he said, are those with "no strong career focus," training or goals. "Quite often, students have very naive notions about what they might do."

But Hallgren pointed out the overall job forecast for most UNL grads isn't all that bleak yet. In fact, hirings the first semester "still tended to be rather good," and starting salaries generally are "holding stable" or increasing slightly in virtually all disciplines.

"The full impact of the economic uncertainties didn't really begin to show up until toward the end of the first semester," he said.

Interviewers 'Stable'

The number of employers who interviewed UNL students on campus this school year "remained remarkably stable," he said, noting recruiting visits don't necessarily result in a corresponding number of hirings. Those statistics will be available next month.

"It's very obvious," Hallgren said, that "the automotive industry would go on a no-hire basis," while oil and petroleum "have a rather heavy demand" for employees.

But the attitudes, politics and priorities of government also play on the job market, he said. For example, the needs of the space program were based on a "national commitment, rather than the state of the economy."

'Demand Will Shift'

In the current "period of uncertainty and readjustment," Hallgren said, "government and public demand will shift the priorities for employment."

"It really doesn't make any difference what needs to be done," he said, pointing out businesses will hire in areas where they stand to make the most profits. "It's something we like to overlook."

"Because we have gone through a decade or more of good times economically," Hallgren said.

students made the assumption that "I will do what I want to do and what I have trained or directed myself to do."

Some students' studies take "so specific a focus" that they end up with an "unneeded skill," he said. And a student might pursue a professional career, such as dental school, because plumbing seems to hold a lower social status, though equally lucrative

Student 'Resistance'

One problem now, Hallgren said, is some student "resistance to really explore" their own desires and needs, "because of social attitudes and pressures which exist."

Attitudes vary within UNL, he said, explaining that the Engineering and Business Administration Colleges, for example, have built-in career orientations. Some units, such as the Journalism School and Ag College have their own placement services.

Hallgren's office offers students help in self-evaluation, determining goals, putting those goals in a realistic context, exploring job fields and approaching specific employers — providing a broad range of options.

Graduates in the highly technical and specialized fields seem to have the most success now finding suitable work, he said; energy, for example, business and some liberal arts studies such as actuarial science. While more jobs are available in engineering nationwide, the number of hirings is down slightly.

Productiveness

In other fields, "Employers tend to seek people who can become productive employees as quickly as possible," Hallgren said. "Some companies want personal qualities, not specific disciplines." An aggressive graduate may "have a better chance initially" in marketing, even though he holds an agronomy degree.

In fields that are hiring, Hallgren said, women graduates "have very good chances" and he predicted "excellent opportunities will continue" for them.

Hallgren's observations come six weeks after the 29th annual Northwestern University Endicott Report of 1975 trends in employment of college and university graduates in 160 businesses and industries.

Frank S. Endicott found that nearly seven in ten firms planned to expand or maintain their campus recruiting efforts, half indicated job needs for bachelor degree men are up, but the total to be hired is almost the same as last year, and demand for women graduates is up by 7%.

Thus, Endicott said, the number of graduates to be hired by firms cutting back will offset the number to be employed by those with greater needs.

Beefland Security Chief Dead

Council Bluffs, Iowa (UPI) — The head of security at Beefland International here was found dead Sunday in his second floor office.

Charles Fumarol of Omaha, who was in his 60s, was slumped over the desk and bleeding from a bullet wound in his head when security officers Chester Blake and Cindy Harrington found him.

Beefland International is a wholly-owned subsidiary of American Beef Packers, Inc., of Omaha, which filed for limited

ABP Loss $9 Million On Minatare Lot Deal

Omaha (UPI) — American Beef Packers, Inc., suffered a net loss of at least $9 million in the sale of its Minatare feedlot last month, it was learned Sunday.

Thomas J. Clark, ABP vice president-finance, refused to confirm or deny the loss figure, contending the records of ABP subsidiaries were "confidential and not available to the public."

However, a source at ABP who used to be involved in the administration of the feedlot, said the net loss would be "at least $9 million and maybe more."

'Don't Have All Figures'

"We don't have all the figures in yet," the source said. "But those won't make any difference one way or the other in the losses we've suffered in that feedlot operation."

The feedlot, UPI learned, was the prime "Waterloo" that caused ABP Board Chairman and President Frank R. West to place the firm in limited bankruptcy Jan. 7.

West has contended, however, the increased costs — from $10 million to more than $20 million — of the firm's new Dumas, Tex., plant were the chief downfall of American Beef.

But sources have told UPI that ABP officials wanted to keep the Minatare feedlot operation losses "quiet", because the losses were primarily suffered when ABP purchased cattle when the market prices were overly high

Cattle Buying 'Forte'

West and his vice president for cattle procurement, Robert E. Lee, governed the cattle purchases, and West is said to consider the art of cattle buying his "forte."

ABP purchased the Minatare facility on July 20, 1973, from the now defunct Colossal Cattle Co., Minatare, for $1.68 million in cash, and sold it last month to the Premier Corp., Fowlerville, Mich.

ABP attorneys have said the sale to Premier involved a transaction of an estimated $9 million. However, Northwestern National Bank in Omaha had a $7 million lien on the cattle at the feedlot, and the Travelers Insurance Co. had a $1.3 million lien in the property.

Separate Division

West set up the administration of the Minatare feedlot under a separate ABP division, the American Feeding Co.

Clark said Sunday ABP never has made financial records on its subsidiaries available to the public despite the fact ABP stock is offered for sale to the public as an over-the-counter security.

Clark said ABP submits its reports to the federal Securities and Exchange Commission in the form of a consolidated balance sheet which shows the overall financial status of the company including its subsidiaries.

"That's all the law requires," Clark said. "We as a company don't make it a practice to release earnings of our subsidiaries."

Officers said when they arrived, Fumarol was sitting in a chair and slumped over the desk. A .38-caliber revolver was found to the left of the chair, they said.

Fumarol was pronounced dead at a Council Bluffs hospital.

Blake told authorities Fumarol was alone "no longer than five minutes." He said Fumarol earlier had been "normal in spirit, if not jovial."

His was believed to be the first death among ABP employees since the company filed limited bankruptcy.

Miller (WhoElse?) Wins Again

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — Johnny Miller keeps right on winning but he still thinks Jack Nicklaus is No. 1.

Miller, despite being up half the night with his sick infant daughter, shot a four-under par 68 Sunday to win the $160,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic for his third victory this year and his 11th in the last 14 months.

"I guess I'm No. 1 right now," said the 27-year-old Miller after the marathon 90-hole Hope Classic, which he won with a score of 21-under-par 339, "but if Jack comes out here and plays to his potential, he's No. 1. He is stronger than me and is more experienced."

It was as close as Miller would come to criticizing Nicklaus, who has played in two tournaments thus far this year after competing in only 18 last year.

"I'm playing good so I want to go out as often as I can," said Miller. "I can't worry about Jack. I'll play next in the San Diego Open because they don't have much of a field and it's only fair someone show up."

Nicklaus, who passed up the Hope, won't play again until the Los Angeles Open two weeks from now.

Miller started the final round here three shots ahead of boyhood friend Jerry Heard and then fought off successive challenges from Heard, Tom Shaw and Bob Murphy to win by three strokes.

The victory was worth $32,000 and boosted Miller's earnings to $107,831 for 1975. In the only event he didn't win this year of the ones he competed in, Johnny finished in a tie for sixth after a Crosby. He won the Phoenix and Tucson Opens to start the 1975 tour by a combined total of 24 strokes.

He made light of his lack of sleep Saturday night and said no one should make "a big deal out of it."

Miller's youngest daughter — 7-month old Cassi — became ill Saturday night and was finally taken to a hospital Sunday with a possible case of the flu. Miller and his wife Linda stayed up with Cassi most of the night and Miller even found time to go to church Sunday morning before teeing off in the final round.

He started out with a bogey five on the second hole when he three putted from 25 feet but recovered with birdies on the par-4 sixth and the par-5 eighth to make the turn at Bermuda Dunes in one under 35. Coming back, Miller birdied the 13th with a four footer, the 14th with a 20 footer and the 16th with a 12 footer to close out his challenges.

Murphy, who started five strokes back, shot a final round six under 66 for 18 under par 342 and won $18,240. Heard finished with a 69 for 343 and won $11,360 while Shaw finished with a 69 for 345 and a purse of $7,520.

Miller, who won eight tournament titles and a record $553,021 in 1974 and PGA Player of the Year honors, had five birdies and one bogey in his closing round 68 for a tournament total of 28 birdies and seven bogies.

He missed about a 10-footer on the final hole which would have tied him for the Hope Tournament record of 338 set by Arnold Palmer in the first Desert Classic in 1960.

Dinges, Straub Top City Meet

By BOB MOYER

All events champions Kathy Dinges and Bill Straub emerged as the stars as the city bowling tournament concluded Sunday.

Bowling on Saturday, Dinges broke Jean Kohlman's all events record of 1811, shooting 1831. Dinges accomplished the feat by setting two other all-time women's scratch records — series and doubles.

Shooting in the doubles with Jean Merriman, Dinges had a whopping 678 series and with Merriman's 525 had a record 1203 scratch total.

Dinges also missed the singles scratch title by one pin when she had 599. Linda Johnson won the scratch and handicap title with a 600-84—684 total.

In winning the all events, Straub edged Joe Peterson, 2050-2022, to record one of the best nine-game totals ever. Straub also had the highest game ever in the tourney, a 299 at Parkway.

In addition Straub and teammate Doug Parker had second best scratch doubles total of 1358. Max Jensen and Mike White edged them out with a 1369 total, only three pins shy of the record set last year by Rodger Florom and Mel Brydl.

Straub also tied John Madsen for second best scratch total in singles with 718, topped by Joe Peterson's 734 series, the best shot by any male bowler in the tournament.

Straub also paced the winning scratch team, Kiwi #2, with a 662 series. Kiwi #2 won the scratch total with a 3027 shot on the last day.

They edged out E. O. Peters' 3019 total to take the crown. Besides Straub other members of the team included Doug Parker (632), Doug Christ (643), Mike Kunkke (563) and Steve Jackson (527).

Starting Gate Inventor Remains In Business

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

San Francisco, Calif. — Clay Puett knew there had to be a better way to start horse races. There had to be some way that all the horses would have an equal start at the break.

So he did something — he invented the electric starting gate in 1939. He's been building them ever since.

"The closed starting gate hasn't changed very much since I first invented them," said the Phoenix resident who admits to being between 60 and 70-years-old. "The safety aspects and the materials we use hasn't changed, but the dimensions are still the same."

"We don't use blueprints," he said. "If you have blueprints then something can go wrong and it gives someone an excuse to change them."

The starting gates, costing $27,000 each, are constructed by Puett and three helpers. It takes four months to complete one.

Puett usually builds one each year, although he built two last year — one for Longacres at Seattle and one for the new Louisiana Downs track.

Besides furnishing the gate, he also provides the crew and transportation for his gate. Some of the race tracks using his invention include the outstate Nebraska circuit (Grand Island's Fonner Park, Lincoln, Columbus and Atokad Park in South Sioux City), and tracks in Oregon, Washington, California, Arizona and Colorado.

The former jockey and relay rider in rodeos originally tried to leave the business entirely, but circumstances forced him to return to making starting gates in 1949.

"I sold out in the Puett Gate Corporation in 1948 to three other fellows in the business," he explained. "We just couldn't get along. But I had to go back to building them in 1949, when I tried to rent one. I couldn't find anybody who would rent me one, so I went back to building them myself."

One reason that Puett had the capabilities to invent the starting gate was that he worked as a starter for more than 35 years.

He used all the old methods and saw all the flaws in dropping a string or a rope in front of horses to signal the start of a race.

Puett worked for 25 years at Vancouver as well as doing starting stunts at Phoenix, Longacres, Thistledown and the California fair circuit.

In fact, Puett helped Billy Mills in his initial years as a starter. He gave Mills (no relation to the current Ak-Sar-Ben starter Hank Mills) his first start in 1934 at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark.

Mills, who worked the 1956 season at Ak-Sar-Ben as a starter, is now the head starter at Santa Anita Park near Los Angeles.

Puett may have retired from pushing the button that releases the horses, but his influence is still noted today at race tracks around the country.

Tex Walker (42) of the University of California-Santa Barbara drives past Creighton's Rick Apke (rear) and Daryl Heeke (rear, left). The Bluejays won the game, 72-61, for their 10th straight victory. See story, page 12.

Haynie Sinks Putt To Win LPGA Meet

Naples, Fla. (AP) — Sandra Haynie won a $40,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament Sunday when she sank a 14-foot putt for par on the final hole and her two challengers missed birdies.

Miss Haynie, who collected $5,700 for the victory, birdied four holes on the back nine and finished with a four-under-par 68 for a 54-hole total of 211, five under par on the 6,100-yard Lely Country Club Course.

Donna Caponi Young and Marilyn Smith finished a stroke back at 212 with closing rounds of 72. Debbie Austin, who had shared the lead with Mrs. Young and Miss Smith going into the final round, finished with 73-213.

Miss Smith missed a 23-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole by three inches and blamed it on misinformation on Miss Haynie's score.

"I thought I had to two-putt to win," said Miss Smith. "I didn't know Sandra was five under par. If I had known, I would have charged the hole more."

Mrs. Young, seeking her second straight tournament victory, had a nine-foot birdie putt slide past the right side of the 18th hole.

Husker Victory To Lure Fans?

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Basketball coaches aren't the only ones who notice the difference in winning basketball teams.

"Winning games is a prime factor in selling tickets," said Nebraska athletic ticket manager Jim Pittenger.

The Huskers have sold out the 8,500-seat Coliseum for the last three Big Eight games — against Oklahoma State, Colorado and Iowa State. The regionally-televised league opener against Kansas State was the only non-capacity crowd this year.

"Since we beat Iowa State (a 75-62 win on Saturday night), I'm pretty sure we'll sell out for our last three games," Pittenger said. "Right now, Missouri looks more like a sellout than Kansas, but you have to remember that's a lot closer in most people's minds."

After Oklahoma invades Lincoln Wednesday, the Huskers' next home game is on Feb. 22 against Missouri. KU ends the NU home schedule on March 5.

"If we do sell out, then we'd have sellouts, for six of our seven league games," he said. "But I can't remember if that's a record or not. We've had some awful good crowds here over the years. We really don't keep accurate records on basketball attendance, so it's hard to say if this is near a record or not."

He said had Nebraska won at either Kansas or Missouri, the last three games would "easily have been sellouts."

In viewing the entire season, Pittenger said Nebraska basketball had crowd trouble in December since many of the students are on vacation during home games. Part of the decline in student support can be attributed to the change in NU's academic calendar a few years back which permitted more vacation time in December.

In fact, only 882 University student tickets were sold this year. That's about one-third the number of student tickets sold under the old semester plan.

Pittenger said against Oklahoma $5ate, 2,283 $1 student tickets were sold at the door. That includes all students, not just NU students.

"For Colorado and Oklahoma State, we sold about 3,000 tickets at the door," he said. "That figure usually holds pretty true when we sell out."

Sellers stopped selling tickets for both the Colorado and Oklahoma State about 20 minutes before tipoff. That somewhat surprised Pittenger.

I really didn't think we'd have to stop selling tickets for the Colorado game," he said. "I thought we'd have a good crowd, but I really didn't think we'd have a sellout."

When we sold out for Colorado, I thought we'd sell out for OSU," he said.

He said when Nebraska moves into its new 15,000 Fieldhouse next season, it is possible Nebraska could average between 12,000 and 15,000 fans.

That would probably be enough to put basketball in at least a slight money-making operation, Pittenger said. Football is the only sport currently in the University athletic program showing a profit.

'Great Accomplishment'

San Francisco, Calif. — The man who, perhaps, was most influential in initiating the recent Eclipse Award dinner was not present here at the fourth annual ceremony.

"These dinners honoring the past year's champions in thoroughbred horse racing were started while Tom (Brock) was president of the TRA (Thoroughbred Racing Association)," said Ak-Sar-Ben general manager Dick Becker.

"Tom wanted to get this dinner started."

"This has been one of the best things racing's done to promote itself in many years,"

Becker said. "It's really a great accomplishment."

Before Brock's untimely death in 1973, he vaulted into national prominence as the first TRA national president from a track not located in a major metropolitan area. Brock was only the second man ever to hold Ak-Sar-Ben's dual titles of executive director and general manager.

The greatest tribute to Brock was that he masterminded the three dominant forces in horse racing today into joining forces to have one set of awards and one dinner honoring the sport's champions. Previously, the TRA, the Daily Racing Form and the National Turf Writers Association presented separate awards.

"Now we all get together and the awards are so much more meaningful," Becker said. "Not only that, the meetings here gave us an opportunity to sit down and visit about common problems that people at other tracks have faced."

Other Participants

Besides Becker, other Ak-Sar-Ben executive staff personnel here included assistant general manager Bob Volk, director of member activities Stan Bowker and administrative assistant Bill Murphy. Some of the meetings they attended included discussions of the TRA president's report, a seminar on public relations, a report on the latest in pari-mutuel equipment, and numerous speeches and private discussions.

One prevailing theme during the weeklong TRA national meeting was racing management's concern with the recession this year.

"I certainly hope it doesn't hurt us," said Becker. "But everything we do is subject to the economy and a lot wiser people than me don't have any answers."

"I think our stakes program (highlighted by the Omaha Gold Cup and Cornhusker Handicap, both $100,000-added offerings) is a tremendous product for the people of Nebraska and the midwest," Becker added. "We hope those two attract more interest. The one thing people want to see is the best quality stock and the money certainly helps get that."

Becker said Ak-Sar-Ben will not increase its admission or daily program prices at this spring's 56-day meeting. He added that there may be slight "adjustments" in prices of concession items, which have been severely mangled by inflation.

Besides the TRA member tracks, representatives from horsemen and jockey organizations and the pari-mutuel industry were also present.

That's what makes meetings where all sides can discuss matters so important. It's a tribute to the late Tom Brock that this year's Eclipse Award dinner was attended by a record gathering of 1,100.

Prep basketball fans are encouraged to mark Feb. 20 down on their calendars.

That's when top-ranked Omaha Central battles second-ranked Creighton Prep and, if things go right, Central will put a 19-0 record on the line against Prep's 17-2.

Nothing draws fans more than a pair of winning, highly-ranked basketball teams, so Metro Conference officials changed the site of the showdown to Omaha's Civic Auditorium.

The game originally was scheduled for Norris Junior High School, which can seat only 2,000 fans. Officials indicated they expect about 7,500 at Civic Auditorium.

A similar situation last year — when Prep was unbeaten and No. 1 and Central was second — prompted officials to change the site of a season-ending Prep-Central matchup to Civic Auditorium.

That contest drew 6,551 and officials reason that Central's reputation this season as one of the state's best prep basketball outfits ever should boost the gate even more.

Although Central has steamrolled through its schedule with little difficulty, Prep started the season with a 38-34 upset loss to lowly-regarded Omaha Roncalli.

Since that time, the Junior Bluejays have been awesome with the exception of their 62-40 loss to Central in the Metro Holiday Tournament.

Among Prep's most notable wins are a 6-point decision over No. 4 Omaha Burke, 1 and 12-point verdicts over No. 5 Westside, a 22-point conquest of No. 7 Omaha Benson, a 20-point whipping over No. 9 Omaha North and a 21-point handling of No. 10 Papillion last Saturday night.

Both Central and Prep returned three starters from last year's powerhouse teams and thus were accorded No. 1 and 2 status in the Sunday Journal and Star's pre-season Class A top 10.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

Class A

- 1—Omaha Central (17-0)
- 2—Creighton Prep (15-2)
- 3—North Platte (11-2)
- 4—Omaha Burke (11-4)
- 5—Omaha Westside (11-5)
- 6—Lincoln East (7-3)
- 7—Omaha Benson (9-6)
- 8—Lincoln Northeast (7-4)
- 9—Omaha North (7-7)
- 10—Papillion (8-4)

Comment — North Platte advances to third after weekend sweep over Lincoln Northeast and Lincoln High. Top game this week is No. 5 Westside at No. 1 Central Saturday night. Other feature games are Northeast at Hastings (8-4) Tuesday night and No. 4 Burke at No. 7 Benson Saturday night.

Morning Briefing

A Sports Roundup

TENNIS

Chris Evert beat Margaret Court and won $15,000 for her 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 triumph in the final of the women's tennis circuit tournament at the Cleveland Coliseum.

Mrs. Court, the Australian who has been back in action only six weeks since a year's absence, forced the women's circuit final to three sets for the first time in a year and one half.

Paul Ramirez, Mexico's No. 1 player, scored his first win on the World Championship Tennis tour by defeating Roscoe Tanner in the final of the $50,000 tourney in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Billy Martin, an amateur, won the $25,000 Arkansas International Tennis tournament Sunday with a victory over George Hardie Jr. The title was won last year by Jimmy Connors, who had to withdraw from this year's competition.

AUTO RACING

Ron Hutcherson, of Keokuk, Iowa, won the Automobile Racing Club of America's 200-mile winter race.

Mark Donahue, warming up for an attempt at a world closed-course speed record later in the week, whipped a turbocharged Porsche 917 around the Daytona Speedway at an unofficial 201.734 mph, the fastest lap ever recorded on the track.

Donahue's goal is to surpass the 217.854 m.p.h. set by A. J. Foyt at Talladega, Ala., last year.

Donnie Allison captured the pole position in the Daytona 500 stock car race, with a qualifying speed of 185.827 m.p.h.

David Perason, who won the pole last year wheeled his Mercury to the other front row spot for next Sunday's $300,000 race, with a speed of 184.411.

BASEBALL

The Kansas City Royals signed six regulars to contracts for the 1975 season including Cookie Rojas, George Brett, Hal McRae, Nelson Briles, Steve Mingori and Harmon Killebrew.

The only starter missing among the 10 unsigned Royals left was catcher Fran Healy.

Catcher Manny Sanguillen and rookie pitcher Rich Standart signed their contracts with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Jerold C. Hoffberger, board chairman of the Baltimore Orioles has ruled out selling the National Brewing Company's controlling interest in the club unless a buyer offers to purchase all the stock in the team's holding company.

OTHER SPORTS

Four world record holders, including shot putter George Wood and high jumper Dwight Stones have signed to compete in the two-day U.S. Track and Field Federation's National Indoor championships in Oklahoma City next Saturday.

The NCAA has ruled that Seton Hall's basketball standout Glenn Mosely is ineligible for the next 21 games. The ruling came in a dispute over whether the university had recruited Mosely the nation's leading rebounder.

Ron Lyle of Denver, ranked third by the WBA and the WBC will meet Jimmy Young of Philadelphia in a 10-round bout in Honolulu Tuesday.

The Chinese topped defending champion Sweden, 5-2, and Yugoslavia downed Czechoslovakia, 5-3, to move into the finals of the World Table Tennis Championships.

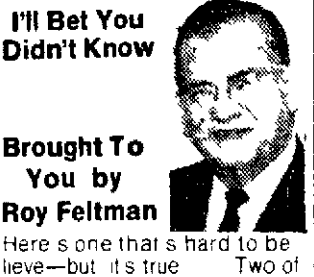

Carlos Monzon, the WBA's middleweight champion will defend his title against Tony Lucata of the U.S. next May.

Three persons were arrested after a fight broke out during a basketball game Saturday night between Tuskegee Institute and Alabama State.

Police said the fight broke out in the first half of the game after two players started an argument. Both benches emptied and the fans joined the melee.

Bob Hewitt of South Africa, Italy's Adriano Panatta and Onny Paron of New Zealand advanced to the quarterfinals of the $60,000 World Championship Tennis Green Group Tournament.

A coed tennis squad from Ohio State defeated a University of Maryland team for the championship of the Saranac Cup tournament at Pittsburgh. The tourney was billed as the first coed collegiate match in the nation to follow the team tennis format with mixed doubles matches, men's and women's singles and men's and women's doubles.

I'll Bet You Didn't Know

Brought To You by Roy Feltman

Here's one that's hard to believe—but it's true. Two of the greatest pro basketball players of all time, Bob Cousy and Bill Russell, FAILED to make their high school basketball teams. Both were cut from their squads in their high school days.

It seems incredible, but it's been confirmed by the National Basketball Association. And it proves again that truth is sometimes stranger than fiction.

Has any basketball player ever scored all his team's points in one game? This amazing feat happened once in a high school game in Alabama. A player named Walter Garrett scored 97 points in one game a few seasons ago and the final score in that game was 97-54!

Here's one for you bowlers. Do you have any idea what the odds are against rolling a perfect 300 game? According to the American Bowling Congress, the odds against a 300 game, even by the best of bowlers, are 367,000 to 1.

There have been almost 7 million games rolled in ABC tournaments over the years and only 19 perfect 300-games in all that time. That's where they get the odds of 367,000 to 1.

I bet you didn't know that Bourbon Supreme is the world's only charcoal distilled straight bourbon.

Creighton Captures Victory

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Creighton University tied a school record with its 10th consecutive basketball victory Sunday a 72-61 triumph over California-Santa Barbara.

Creighton, ranked 18th in the nation with a 16-4 record, led by seven points at the half. But Santa Barbara pulled within one at 47-46 on a goal by Don Ford with 13 minutes left. Creighton then reeled off four straight baskets.

Charles Butler of Creighton led all scorers with 22 points. Ford had 21 for Cal-Santa Barbara. Doug Brookins the Blue-jay leader with an 18.2 season scoring average, was held to nine points.

Santa Barbara 13-6 collected only three of four free throw attempts, all by Ford, while Creighton plunked in 14 of 17. Each team had 29 field goals.

Santa Barbara shot 49 per cent from the field and Creighton 46 per cent.

Out of the money in the Strub were Confederate Yankee Ga. Ha, First Back, Dumbwater, the favored Top Command, and Lightning Mandate.

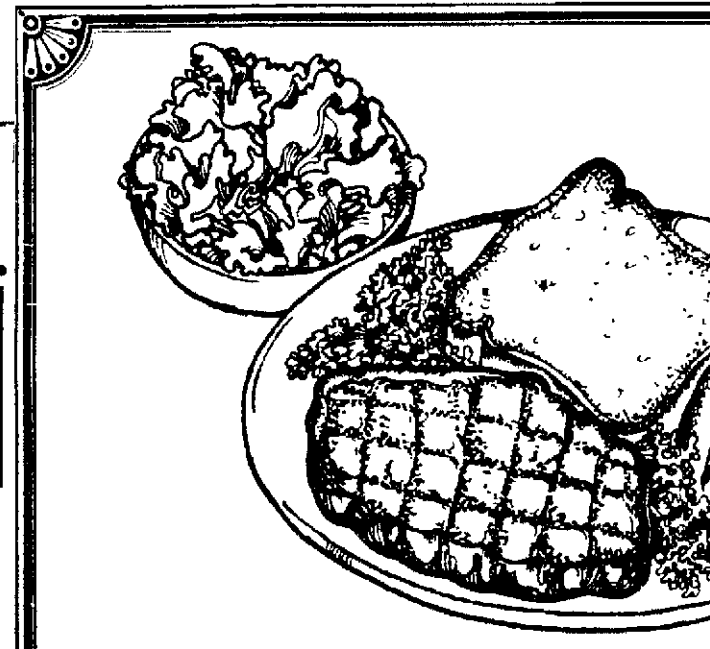

It was the second straight triple for Shoemaker who scored three wins Saturday including a victory in the $50,000 San Marcos Handicap with Trojan Bronze.

Creighton Roars Past Wesleyan

Omaha — Despite the 14-point output by game leading scorer Kathy Rickerson, the Nebraska Wesleyan women's basketball team could not overcome a 32-9 halftime deficit as Creighton felled NWU, 55-31 here Sunday.

The Planswomen, now 0-7, travel to Crete Wednesday to face Doane College.

Multiple Ticket Nets $72,977.80

TJUANA Mexico (UPI) — A 44-year-old delicatessen owner, who won $54,000 in 1964, picked up his second major payoff Sunday at Agua Caliente—$72,977.80 for picking the winners of the fifth through the 10th races on Saturday's program.

Antonio Ceteda of Tijuana, who wanted his winnings in cash instead of a check, put the foot-high pile of $50 bills into a bag and was escorted from the thoroughbred horse racing track.

He used a single multiple ticket costing $630 to win Agua Caliente's 5-10 handicapping contest Saturday. Two of his picks were longshots returning mutual payoffs of $23 and $22.40.

Ceteda said he has been playing the handicapping contest for eight years.

Racing Reports To Commission

New Orleans (AP) — Reports that related to the suspension of a jockey and three grooms at the Fair Grounds have been referred to the Louisiana State Racing Commission.

Stewards suspended the four men as the result of an investigation that came after a shakedown of the race track's stables last Jan. 31.

Major League Players Eye Arbitration Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Salary arbitration hearings for major league baseball players will open in four cities Wednesday—New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

How many players will go to arbitration is uncertain, Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association said Sunday. As of late Friday, he said, there were more than 20 players who had declared they were submitting their salary disputes to arbitration, although that number "changes from hour to hour."

While Miller refused to name the players unhappy with their teams' offers, he said there are "quite a few from Oakland again."

Last year, the first time arbitration was made available to players dissatisfied with their contract offers, 29 players went to arbitration, including nine from the A's.

"California is a special case," Miller said, explaining why hearings are being held in two cities there. "Originally California was just Los Angeles. But last year Oakland had nine cases. It seemed kind of silly to make players and club owners and officials go so far when the bulk of the cases were in Oakland."

Oakland slugger Reggie Jackson, who won a hefty raise in arbitration last year, reportedly is back again. It is believed he will be joined by teammates Sal Bando, Joe Rudi, Bert Campaneris, Ken Holtzman and Vida Blue.

Several other Oakland players also are reported to be considering arbitration, including Gene Tenace, Ray Fosse, Ted Kubiak, Angel Mangual, Bill North, John "Blue Moon" Odum, Paul Lindblad and Dave Hamilton.

Rudi, Tenace, Kubiak and Jack Heidemann lost their arbitration cases last year. Five other A's—Jackson, Bando, Holtzman, Rolfe Fingers and Darold Knowles—won.

Other players who have filed for arbitration include pitcher Pat Dobson of the New York Yankees, pitcher Ray Sadecki of the St. Louis Cardinals and two Minnesota Twins—second baseman Rod Carew and pitcher Bert Blyleven.

Also reported taking their salary disputes to arbitration are outfielder Johnny Briggs and pitcher Tom Murphy of the Milwaukee Brewers; outfielder Ralph Garr and pitchers Buzz Capra and Tom House of the Atlanta Braves; second baseman Bobby Grich of the Baltimore Orioles and pitcher Don Carrithers of the Montreal Expos.

The deadline for filing for arbitration is Monday. An impartial arbitrator will hear each case and choose either the owner's or the player's figures. The arbitrator has no authority to compromise the two bids.

Meeting Set

The regular monthly meeting for AAA fast pitch softball will be held Monday night at 7:30 at the Legion Club with all managers and umpires requested to attend.

Russell To Refuse Induction

SEATTLE (UPI) — Seattle SuperSonics' coach Bill Russell, elected to the National Basketball Hall of Fame this weekend, said Sunday he will refuse induction into the shrine and officials of the Hall of Fame expressed shock and puzzlement at the action of the former Boston Celtics' star.

"For my own personal reasons which I don't want to discuss, I don't want to be a part of it. I'm not going. They know that I've felt this way for many years," Russell said after learning that he had received one of basketball's most coveted honors.

Russell's unusual decision brought about a startled reaction from Lee Williams, executive director of the Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

"I'm shocked," said Williams. "I'd spoken to Bill twice during the All-Star game at Phoenix and I told him all about it and he said 'fine.' I have no idea what changed his mind."

There was some opinion that Russell's decision had racial undertones since there are no other black players from the NBA in the Hall of Fame. But Williams said that Russell was off base if he believed the Hall was completely lacking in black representation.

If that's so then he's wrong, said Williams. We have the original Rens in our honors court. They were elected in 1961 and consist of seven black players. Also Robert O. Douglas, owner and manager of the Rens, is in the Hall of Fame. He was elected in 1971."

Russell, who was recognized as the premier defensive player in basketball history during his career with the Celtics, was named to the Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility.

Russell, who starred as a collegian at the University of San Francisco, played for 13 seasons in the NBA and led the Celtics to 11 world championships during that time.

Bus Tries To Beat Train; 29 Of 90 Passengers Die

TULTEPEC, Mexico (AP) — An overloaded bus tried to beat a freight train at a crossing Saturday night despite the frightened screams of passengers but the train crashed into it, killing 29 persons and injuring 28.

Survivors said there were no warning lights at the crossing, just on the main road running parallel to it. But they stressed that the train was easy to see and had sounded at least two warning blasts.

The impact of the collision was so great that the bus was completely destroyed, a police spokesman said, and rescue workers had to use welding torches to cut through the twisted metal to pull out the dead and injured.

A police spokesman said the bus was carrying 90 passengers although its capacity was only 44. All the victims, including men, women and children, were passengers on the bus. The bus driver, identified as Jose Casamiro, 47, was among the dead.

A Red Cross spokesman said there were no foreigners. He said more deaths were feared because more than a dozen of the injured were in serious condition.

Survivors said the bus was traveling slowly on a gravel road parallel to the main paved road which was being repaired as it approached the crossing two miles from Tultepec. The town is 30 miles north of Mexico City.

"The train was very visible because it was very dark," Pedro Solana, 22, an injured passenger said. "I saw the light from afar even before we got to the railroad crossing. I thought the driver was going to stop but he didn't. Then I heard all this screaming. I started screaming: 'You stupid idiot stop!' Then I heard what sounded like an explosion. Bright white light engulfed everything and then I lost consciousness."

Solana, a farmer from Tultepec, was hospitalized in critical condition. He suffered two broken legs, three broken ribs, head injuries and a back wound. He still did not know what happened to his sister, Margarita, 16, who was also a passenger on the bus.

Herlinda Fiesco, 25, a beauty parlor employee from Mexico City who was en route to her home in Tultepec, was caught between twisted metal under the bus and rescue crews got her out using the torches. She suffered two broken arms, two broken legs, head injuries and facial lacerations and was hospitalized in critical condition.

"I didn't feel the impact but I knew something was going to happen because I saw the train before we crossed and then again very close to the bus when we were crossing. Everybody on the bus was screaming at the driver to stop. I tried to scream too but that's all I remember."

"Then I woke up and I felt a great pressure on my body and I couldn't breathe and my head was in pain and I was screaming for people to help me and then I passed out again," she said.

Javier Chacon, 17, a student, said he was standing next to the driver. "I saw the light of the train before we crossed the big intersection and I heard the train honk the horn and I screamed to the driver to stop. That's all I remember."

"I passed out and I woke up and I was in a field of bushes. I felt numb and I felt blood all over my face. My sister was crying and she was wiping the blood with a rag. I couldn't believe what was happening. It was like a nightmare. If that damn driver had only stopped, we wouldn't be here."

Chacon suffered two broken legs and bruises on his face and head. He was reported in critical condition at the Red Cross hospital. His sister escaped injury.

The train was on its way from Mexico City to Juarez, across the border from El Paso, Tex. It was allowed to continue on its journey two hours after the crash.

ATHOL, Mass. (AP) — A woman and six children died and a man and two other children were injured Sunday in a fire that gutted a two-story home here.

A Fire Department spokesman identified the dead as Charlene Garneau, 32, David Garneau, 6, Eddie Garneau Jr., 10, Stephen Abram, 11, Jacqueline Abram, 15, Susan Peterson, 15, and Robert Peterson, 17. The spokesman said all the

Raymond Couple 'Satisfactory' After Car-Train Accident

A Raymond couple were listed in "satisfactory" condition at St. Elizabeth Health Center following a car-train accident at the Stevens Creek crossing near 84th and Cornhusker Sunday afternoon, according to the State Patrol.

Medford Hasse, 48, and his wife Marilyn, 43, were taken to the hospital after their car was struck by a Burlington Northern freight train. The patrol said Hasse was southbound on the county road and apparently did not see the train until he was too close to stop. Engineer of the train Darrell Hornby, 40, of 1024 Elmwood, was not injured. (Star Staff Photo By Adella Wacker.)

Seven Killed, Three Injured As Fire Guts House In Athol, Mass.

The cause of the blaze was under investigation by local officials and the state fire marshal's office.

The fire department said electricity to the house was shut off a week ago because of nonpayment of bills.

The owner of the house, Robert Peterson Jr. was reported in satisfactory condition at Athol Memorial Hospital. He rescued two children.

Raymond Abram, 14, and John Abram, 12. They were both taken to Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, where John's condition was listed as fair and Raymond's as good.

Police Sgt. Robert Jillson said Mrs. Garneau, who was legally separated from her husband, Eddie Garneau Sr., was previously married to a man named Abram. She and her children from both marriages had moved in with the family of Peterson, 38, whose wife died a year ago.

The fire department said five bodies were found in the living room, which contained several beds, and another was found in a hall which had a bed. One body was found in the dining room of the single-family home.

The blaze, reported about 2 a.m., gutted the house and one side of the roof caved in. A neighbor said several other fires had been reported in the house in the past.

Troops Suffering

Manila (UPI) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos said government troops were suffering severe casualties in fighting against Moslem secessionists in the southern Philippines.
